Reds Cut Off In An Allied Speed Drive Towards Pyongyang

Twenty Thousand Are Cut Off To Be Mopped Up Very Shortly

By TOM STONE

TOKYO, Sunday, Oct. 15 (AP)—Speeding allied ground troops smashed out gains of 15 to 20 miles Saturday in a three-pronged drive towards the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Cut off behind them were an estimated 20,000 Reds to be mopped up later.

The South Korean first division struck 20 miles to Singye, 55 miles southeast of the Korean Communist stronghold.

The South Korean capital division drove 15 miles west from Wonsan, port on the east coast, to a point 70 miles east of Pyongyang.

A U. S. First Cavalry division column rumbled through captured Kumchon on the main road to Pyongyang, 70 miles northwest.

Another First Cavalry column struck northward just west of Kumchon and was reported closer to the Red capital than the force that captured Kumchon Saturday.

The left flank spearhead was heading for Namchonjom, 13 miles northwest of Kumchon. It was pursuing fleeting Reds who, a captured Red lieutenant said, planned to set up their next defense point at Namchonjom, a little highway town.

Offer Bitter Resistance

The First Cavalrymen and British and Australian soldiers who captured Kumchon trapped the estimated 20,000 Reds south of the city.

These Reds apparently were still offering bitter resistance. A spokesman for the U. S. Eighth army said the First Cavalry had to battle fiercely to clear the highway from Kumchon back to the outfit's South Korean jump-off point of Kaesong, near parallel 38.

Five bridges on the Yesong river just west of Kumchon were secured by the First Cavalry. Other bridges to the south, however, were still held by Reds.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commander of the First Cavalry, said the trapped Reds "will not get out any tanks, guns or vehicles."

Nine Red tanks were knocked out in the battle for Kumchon.

Independent Operation

The South Korean First division to the east was operating independently of the First Cavalry. Its location before it struck to Singye was given as four and one-half miles northeast of Kumchon.

Wonsan, on the east end of the 130-mile allied front, developed as the split-up point for two South Korean divisions.

While the Capital division was jumping 15 miles toward Pyongyang, the Third division rolled 18 miles north from Wonsan in less than 24 hours to Yongchung. That is 30 miles southwest of the North Korean port of Hungnam.

In a congratulatory message to his troops, Gay told them that their push of more than 200 miles from the old Pusan perimeter in southeast Korea to Kungchon was "the most rapid advance ever made in the history of American arms." The First Cavalry led the allied breakthrough that began Sept. 16.

That general offensive from the old beachhead and the allied landing at Inchon Sept. 15 turned the tide of the Korean war in favor of the United Nations forces.

Since the Reds began the war with an invasion of South Korea June 25, their ever-mounting casualty total has risen to 248,000, a spokesman at General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said. The figure includes 60,000 prisoners, he added.

Still facing the allies as they close in on the remnants of the Red army are an estimated 68,000 Communist troops.

The staggering Red ranks are reported laced heavily with forced conscripts.

There was nothing new from the 37-ship allied task force, led by the U. S. battleship Missouri, which rained exploding steel on Red coastal supply lines from Soviet Siberia Thursday and Friday.

Council To Meet On Monday Night

The City Council will meet in regular session at the City Hall at 7:30 o'clock Monday night.

Mayor Herb E. Studer called a caucus of aldermen Friday night at which time there was a discussion on changes asked by the Sedalia Bus Company and on a tabled ordinance governing railroad gates.

A Prospective Bride Changes Her Plans

Bridegroom To Be Buys House; Loses Girl To Another

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14—(AP)—Bernice Kurdes soon will become a bride, but not today—nor to the scheduled bridegroom.

The attractive 19-year-old Newark girl was to have been married at 5 p. m. today in the Walnut Street Baptist church. A reception for 200 persons was to have followed. Robert Wallman was the prospective bridegroom.

Disappeared From Home

But Miss Kurdes disappeared last night from her home. She left a note for her mother that she was going to "buy something."

The girl did not return home, and her father, Matthew Kurdes, notified the Newark police missing persons bureau today.

A telegram arrived later today from Elkton, Md., The wedding to Wallman was all off, it stated.

Miss Kurdes said in the telegram she planned to marry Roland Lauther of Newark, as soon as they complied with Maryland's 48-hour waiting period.

Family Is Surprised

Members of Miss Kurdes' family said Lauther was not known to them.

Mrs. Ludwig Lauther, mother of the non-prospective bridegroom said her son and Miss Kurdes were employes of the P. Ballantine Brewing Co. here and had known each other for about a year.

The telegram came as a complete surprise to all concerned, the family said today as they cancelled the police missing persons alarm.

Wallman said they had been engaged for a year, and wedding plans settled as long as six months ago.

"If I ever doubted her love," he said, "I wouldn't have made all these plans and bought a house for her."

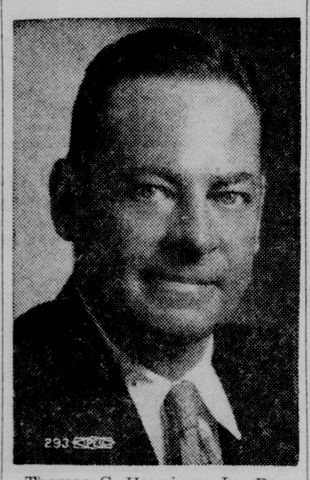
Plants Taken From The Cemetery

Flowers and plants have become an attraction for cemetery thieves according to Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors, who in the past several days has received several reports from persons that flowers and plants have been stolen out of the cemetery off of various graves and cemetery lots.

It is known the thievery is not being committed by children alone. It was reported adults have been "sneaking" through the cemetery and picking plants and flowers. They were not apprehended but descriptions have been given police of these persons.

Anyone arrested for such acts will be punished by either a fine or jail sentence or possibly both.

Coming For Rally



Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Democratic nominee for United States Senator from Missouri, is coming to Sedalia on Wednesday night, October 18 to attend a Democratic rally to be held at the Court House under the auspices of the Pettis County Central Committee. Mr. Hennings will be the principal speaker on the program. He will arrive in Sedalia Wednesday evening and visit with friends at the Bothwell hotel before the meeting which starts at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Hennings served six years in the House of Representatives in Washington representing a St. Louis district. He is a veteran of World War II serving in the United States Navy and achieved promotions in the Navy to Lt. Commander. He is a lawyer by profession and practices in St. Louis.

Warns As To Parking Trucks

Recently the City passed an ordinance prohibiting the parking of large trucks in the residential areas of the city. Since the passing of this new city law the police have been issuing warnings to truck operators and owners, with no arrests being made to date.

Chief Neighbors, Saturday night, announced that due to the lack of cooperation on the part of several of these owners and operators, warnings will not be given to the "second offender" tickets of violation will be issued and the violators notified to report to police headquarters. Failure to report will cause city warrants to be issued for the arrest of those persons.

The new law calls for a penalty of between $5.00 and $100, to be assessed by the Police Magistrate Jerry Trotter.

Negro Officer Gives Version Of Incident

Condemned To Death For "Misbehaving Before The Enemy"

TOKYO, Oct. 14—(AP)—Lt. Leon A. Gilbert, an American Negro infantry officer condemned to death on charges of misconduct in battle in Korea, told his version of the incident today and declared:

"I thought I was doing the right thing: I still think so."

The 31-year-old York, Pa., officer was convicted of "misbehaving himself before the enemy by refusing to advance with his comamnd which had been ordered forward by Col. N. V. White, the regimental commander, to engage with North Korean forces, which froces they said command was then opposing."

Trial By Court-Martial

Gilbert was arrested July 31. His court-martial death penalty was reviewed by Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, commander of the U. S. 25th division, who upheld it. The papers are now in the judge advocate general's office in Washington for another review before submission to President Truman.

Gilbert was a combat officer in World War II. He re-enlisted, he said, in order to "make a career in the Army." He is married and has two children, a daughter, 4, and a son 12 months old. His wife is expecting a third child.

Gilbert—husky, inteligent, quiet spoken—is optimistic about the final decision in his case. During an interview in the empty office of an Army stockade on the outskirts of Tokyo, he made these three points:

Did Not Refuse Order

1. "I did not refuse to obey the order. I was trying to explain why it couldn't be carried out. There were 12 men in my command then I considered it my duty as an officer to show why the order meant certain death.

2. "I am not a coward and I was not afraid at the time. I would walk back to combat now if they would let me.

3. "I think the trial was not complete. I do not say it was unfair. But there were points that were not brought out which were important. There were two lieutenants with me in the same action. One was killed later and so could not testify. The other was wounded and evacuated and his given a statement but that is not the same as having him present to testify and answer questions.

"None of the 12 enlisted men were called, although I understand—this is hearsay—that they wanted to come to the trial."

Doll Buggy at Police Headquarters

A doll buggy and a small teddy bear is being kept at police headquarters awaiting the owner. It can be identified and claimed at police headquarters any time.

The buggy and bear were found on the sidewalk on the east side of the court house several days ago. A call to police headquarters was made by a woman just before the buggy was found, but the caller failed to leave her name.

The Weather

Fair and mild Sunday and Monday; not quite so warm north Sunday, highs 75-80 north, mid-80s south.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and they thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered.—Psalms 40:5.

The man who forgets the wonders and mercies of the Lord is without any excuse for we are continually surrounded with objects which may serve to bring the power and goodness of God strikingly to mind.—Slade.

Stiffer Draft System Is Being Planned

Would Lower Draft Age To Include Youths Of 18

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Senate armed services committee plans to take an interested look at proposals to switch to a new and tougher draft system.

The proposed system would be known as universal military service (UMS) and, a spokesman suggested today, could become a substitute for both the existing selective service draft setup and the proposed compulsory university military training (UMT).

What's the difference between UMS and UMT?

Plenty, according to capitol military sources who told a reporter the committee quietly is laying plans to inquire closely into possible benefits and disadvantages such a switch might involve. However, he emphasized he knows of no senator definitely committed to support UMS.

Under UMS, the spokesman said, a young man reaching a given age level, possibly 18, automatically would have to enter one of the armed services if he could meet physical and mental requirements. Generaly speaking, disability would be the only grounds for deferment.

Eligibility For Call

As in Britain and many continental European nations which have UMS, each man called would get basic training, then go through a period of actual service with the regular armed forces in which he would be available for combat duty at some fixed minimum age if need arose.

After expiration of his service period—21 months has been suggested, the spokesman said—the man automatically would go into the military reserve, subject to call in event of war or other great need. So much for a briefed-down description of UMS.

Universal military training would be just what the name says. It proposes that boys 18 years of age be called up for basic training only. As now proposed, they would get no actual service with the armed forces during this training, and would be exempt from combat duty until after they had returned to civilian life and at least reached the minimum draft age.

The present selective service draft law has some features of both UMS and UMT, but allows deferment for various reasons. It calls to the colors non-deferrable young men 19 to 26 years old, and gives them basic training and field service including, at this time, combat overseas.

Several UMT bills already are pending in Congress. The Senate armed services committee has announced plans to start hearings on the highly controversial issue about Nov. 13. Secretary of Defense Marshall is expected to be one of the first witnesses heard.

Child Killed When Hit by Truck

SULLIVAN, Mo., Oct. 14—(AP)—Linda Diane Moss, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Moss of St. Louis, was killed today when struck by a truck eight miles north of here.

Franklin County Coroner Thomas P. Shaffer said the child had been riding with her five-year-old sister, Nancy, in a two-wheel trailer attached to a farm tractor but apparently jumped out when the tractor halted at the entrance to her grandfather's farm home.

The truck driver was not held.

Two Springfield Men Killed In Plane Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 14—(AP)—Two young Springfield men were killed late today in a crash of a rented airplane they were flying near Cane Hill, Mo., about 40 miles northwest of here.

The victims were N. C. Langford, 21, pilot, and Robert D. Coover, 23.

Langford rented tne plane here and apparently flew over the home of his father, Obie Langford, about two miles from the crash scene.

Coover's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Coover.

Casualty List No. 124 Contains 292 Names

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—A defense department casualty list (No. 124) made public tonight contained 292 names.

Of the total, 106 are dead, 178 wounded, six missing and two injured in war zone accidents.

Rosen Linked In Crime Probe

Inquirers In Second Day At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Senate Crime Committee today released a letter it said came from a high Philadelphia police officer identifying Harry "Nig" Rosen as one of the nation's crime kingpins.

The letter said Philadelphia police knew of "a persistent rumor which is borne out by some known facts" that it was a henchman of Rosen and one of his partners who shot to death the late "Bugsy" Sinegel in Los Angeles three years ago. Siegel was known to police as a nationally important underworld figure.

The letter also said Rosen is closely connected with the Capone gang in Chicago, major gangs in New York City, and with organized crime as far afield as Miami, Fla., and Las Vegas, Nev. His influence also, it was said, reached to the outskirts of the nation's capital in the form of a gambling house just outside Washington, D. C.

Letter June 1949

The letter was dated June 17, 1949, and was addressed to the Senate Crime Committee. The chief counsel for the Senate committee, Rudolph Halley, said the letter was from assistant police Superintendent George F. Richardson, 58-year-old veteran of 33 year with the Philadelphia police force.

Richardson became the center of the Senate probe here today when he denied testimony the committee said he gave yesterday. The committee was in its second day of questioning witnesses from the Philadelphia area today.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), committee chairman said yesterday after Richardson had a session with the Senate crime busters that the police official had named Rosen as Philadelphia's numbers racket overlord, with connections reaching to crime syndicates in other cities.

Philadelphia's Public Safety Director, Samuel H. Rosenberg, promptly announced he was calling Richardson before him to question him about his evidence. However, Rosenberg announced later that Richardson had telephoned him from New York denying he gave the testimony Kefauver said he had, and saying that with another police officer he had broken the numbers racket in Philadelphia and driven Rosen from town.

Thereupon, Halley released the letter.

First Symphony Concert Of Season On October 23

William Watkins, organist of the New York avenue Presbyterian church, Washington, D. C., will be guest artist at the first Sedalia Symphony orchestra concert of the 1950-51, Monday night, October 23, in the auditorium of Smith-Cotton high school. It will be the fifteenth season for the orchestra and for conductor, Abe Rosenthal.

Mr. Watkins was declared winner of the Young Artist Award of $5,000 in the competition held in 1949 by the National Federation of Music clubs. He is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore, Md., where he received the rarely given artist Diploma in organ, the 18th such diploma since 1882. He also won two prizes for distinguished scholarship while at the conservatory. He has been head in numerous recitals in New York, Baltimore, Washington and other eastern cities.

Praised By Critics

Last year he appeared in recital at Kansas City and recently as guest artist with the famed Dallas Symphony orchestra. Other recitals were presented at Okla., City, Tulsa, and Wichita.

The following reviews were clipped from newspapers over the country:

"Marcel Dupre's Variations on a Noel came from Watkins' hands with clarity, dazzling brilliance, and an assurance that utterly belies the fiendish problems involved. He is more than able to handle any requirements in organ literature. An unusual artist with a great start in his field."

The Washington Post, Washington, D. C.

"Demonstrated the broadest possibilities of the organ as a concert instrument. . . touched sixteenth century compositions with great purity of interpretation and with melodic clarity demanded of polyphonic and fugal forms. . presented works of modern composers with enormous virtuosity. . . moving interpretation and technical brilliance."

The Wilmington Star, Wilmington, N. C.

"The young organist displayed sound musicianship, impeccable technique, a complete command of the organ and an artistic sense of registration."

The Danville Register, Danville, Va.

Chamber of Commons To Open Oct. 26

Historic Old Structure Has Been Rebuilt

By Harold K. Milks

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Britain's historic Chamber of Commns, burned out by German bombs in 1941, will reopen Oct. 26, rebuilt completely even to the traditional peepholes in the doors.

The new chamber, a far cry from the one in which members of Commons first met in 1295, is a clever combination of the ancient and modern. The peepholes, at first forgotten, were included as a bow to old tradition.

Always, in the good old days, members peered through the holes to inspect the king's "black rod," the messenger who came to summon parliament into session. An alert member of today's Commons spotted the omission of the peepholes from the new doors. Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, the architect, agreed it was a mistake. Out came the new glass panels and in their places went wooden ones, complete with holes through which Commons members may peer to their hearts content.

King George and others in the royal family will help open the new chamber. But the ceremony will not be held there. It will be in another part of Westminster palace.

This will be for two reasons, one traditional, the other practical.

A British king never visits the House of Commons. If King George is to participate naturally the formal opening has to be elsewhere.

The practical reason is equally important—the Commons chamber is just too small for the hundreds of dignitaries. Like all halls of British Commons back through the ages it's too small to accomodate on the benches even all its 625 members.

Many New Gadgets

Modern as a jet airplane, and with almost as many gadgets, the new Commons chamber still seats only 939 persons counting spectators. There are green felt-covered benches for 437 members. The other 188 members will have to stand if all should be on hand at one time.

The floor of the chamber remains precisely the same as that of the old house, 68 feet by 45½ feet, but the galleries have been enlarged.

The new chamber, like the old, is gothic. But there has been a marked attempt at embellishment by what the architect describes as "horizontal bands of enrichment alternating with plain areas."

The walls are covered with English oak treated to give a mellow color. In deference to another tradition, said to have been started with Cardinal Wolsey, the members' benches have seats of green leather. No commons chamber has ever had desks.

Most obvious new feature of the rebuilt chamber is the Churchill arch, constructed from damaged stones of bomb-battered old meeting place and named in honor of Britain's wartime prime minister.

Britain's new Commons will be far more comfortable than any of its earlier chambers. The first had no heat and was lit by tallow wicks. The new one has a system of "dusk to daylight" indirect lighting and an elaborate air conditioning system designed to give the atmosphere of a fine spring day.

S-C P.T.A. Up To 507 Members

In a membership drive for the Smith-Cotton high school P. T. A., held October 2-6 it was increased to 597 members.

The home room 102 of Miss Verna Ott, teacher, took the first award and the second one went to home room No. 202. Miss Catherine Gardner, teacher. In the student awards first went to Sonny Rabourn and second to Beverly Jo Wolf.

Mothers serving on the membership committee were:

Mrs. W. A. Korando, chairman, Mrs. Frank Summers, cochairman.

Win Fight Against Moving Schooldesks

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 14—(AP)—Indiana State Police today gave up their attempts to convoy schooldesks away from the well-defended Onward school.

A crowd of 1,500 school-merger opponents began a hilarious series of impromptu parades.

While some 40 troopers pulled out of the area on orders from Governor Henry F. Schricker the jubilant townspeople shouted and sang "Onward Christian Soldiers."

It apparently was their biggest victory against the plan of township trustee Virgil Turner to merge the schools of Onward and nearby Walton.

The withdrawal of the troopers was announced to the crowd by Major Robert O'Neal, state police executive officer, after an hour's conference with the town board.

Salesman In Wave of Terror

Three Bludgeoned In Northwest Detroit Friday

DETROIT, Oct. 14—(AP)—A jittery tobacco salesman admitted to-day, police said, that he bludgeoned at least three persons in a rampage that terrorized northwest Detroit.

The salesman was identified as Ennis Gillum, a 26-year-old Navy veteran.

Police Inspector George Kimball said Gillum's admissions solved five of the beatings of six women and children that marked Friday night's wave of terror. He added a charge of assault with intent to murder would be placed against the tall, handsome salesman Monday.

But the inspector said Gillum's memory of the night was clouded by a drinking spree that started at a businessmen's convention.

"I just drank so much I don't know what I did," the tobacco salesman was quoted as saying.

I'm not a drinking man but when I drink, I'm mean."

Kimball said Gillum had admitted beating two women and a child. Another boy identified him as his assailant.

During all of the Friday night wave, four women and two children were beaten over the head by a man wielding a metal pipe.

The rampage terrorized a fashionable neighborhood in northwest Detroit and prompted police to pour all available manpower into the hunt for the prowler.

Badge as Clue

The police inspector said the clue that led to Gillum was a ractangular plastic button bearing the inscription "Tobacco and Candy."

A terrified boy whose sister was one of the victims said he had seen the assailant wearing that badge.

Police learned that Michigan tobacco and candy distributors were holding a convention in Detroit. They checked the list of delegates, learned Gillum was absent from today's sessions and went to his home in Detroit.

The six victims of the clubbings were Mrs. Dorothy Julian, 37, and her son, Robert, 12; Mrs. Violet Brezeski, 63, her mother; Mrs. Katherine Glacher, 31; Mrs. Blanche Cameron, 65, and Norma Friedman, 10.

The first three victims suffered depressed skull fractures.

Police said Mrs. Glacher was the victim of an assailant whose description did not fit Gillum.

Mrs. Julian was reported in critical condition at Mt. Carmel hospital. Conditions of the other victims were better.

Gillum told police he remembered leaving the convention, where he had been a member of the entertainment committee. Then, he said, he "drew a blank" until he found himself looking in a window of a house.

He saw a woman and remembers making his way into the house, according to Kimball.

The inspector said Gillum admitted then striking the woman.

"Mister, don't," the boy cried; then he struck the boy, too, Kimball said.

A college graduate, Gillum is married but has no children.

Fatally Injured By Crash Of Plane

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—Lawrence E. Vaughn, 27, was injured fatally today in the crash of a small plane at the Ong airport, a suburban field.

Vaughn, a licensed pilot, was a mechanic at the port.

Future Of Korea And Far East Situation Was Discussed At Wake

By The Associated Press

President Truman met for less than two hours Sunday at Wake Island with General MacArthur, then left for Hawaii declaring the United Nations can surmount all dangers.

A pooled dispatch from the island far out in the Pacific said the presidential plane left for the return flight to Hawaii at noon, Sunday, Wake time, or 7 p. m. Saturday, EST.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President felt the conference, though brief, produced "quite highly satisfactory results."

The President was represented as impressed with MacArthur's perspective of the Far Eastern situation. It was the first meeting between the two.

The President was expected to arrive in his plane, the Independence, at 1:05 a. m. Sunday, EST, at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Mr. Truman voluntarily broke up his conference early in order to make it possible for MacArthur to return quickly to Tokyo, Ross said.

Ross told reporters he though MacArthur did a "magnificent job" of presenting the Korean situation. The two discussed Korean rehabilitation.

MacArthur Decorated

Shortly before he left, Mr. Truman decorated MacArthur with a fourth oak leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal.

Both principals agreed not to have a press conference because of the shortage of time.

A communique will be issued later, the dispatch said, quoting "statements by the President concurred in by MacArthur."

Immediately after the President's arrival at 6:30 a. m., he and the general talked face to face for an hour. The formal conference with their advisers followed. It was suspended temporarily while the President rested. It then was soon concluded and both were ready to leave, the President heading back to Hawaii and the general to Tokyo.

It was Saturday, U. S. time, but Sunday on Wake, which is west of the international dateline.

The conference, at the President's bidding, embraced the reconstruction of Korea and possibly American policy throughout the Far East, but Wake's scanty radio facilities prevented prompt reporting of the full details.

White House correspondents of the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press had to pool brief messages from Wake to Honolulu over the civil aeronautics authority radio.

Their joint account, as sent chronologicaly, follows:

Start After Dawn

WAKE ISLAND, Sunday, Oct. 15—(AP)—The Truman-MacArthur conference began here today shortly after dawn in the pink concrete office building on the southeast tip of this tiny island.

General MacArthur preceded Mr. Truman from Tokyo (a 1,985-mile flight) by more than 12 hours, and the two men met for the first time when the President's plane arrived from Honolulu at 6:30 a. m. local time (1:30 p. m. Saturday, EST).

They chatted briefly while posing for photographs, then crawled into a battered Chevrolet sedan for a brief drive to the conference site.

The automobile belonged to the civil aeronautics authority—a red-wheeled 1948 model and the only sedan on the island.

The Constellation Dewdrop, carrying Gen. Omar Bradley, Special Assistant W. Averell Harriman and other top advisers of the President, arrived 15 minutes ahead of the President's plane.

Gen. MacArthur was not on hand to greet Gen. Bradley, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, but he reached the field in time for a brief chat with the Bradley party while the Independence circled the field for its landing.

To Work At Once

Conference principals went right to work around an improvised table in the small, new one-story block concrete and frame office hut.

The conference table actually consisted of ten small folding tables pushed together in oblong

COLUMN

By Stan Swinton
(For Hal Boyle)

TOKYO — (AP) — The U. S. 25th division break through in southeastern Korea two weeks ago is beginning to be recognized as a military classic.

Its lightning sweep from near Masan, on the deep southern coast, to the Yellow Sea at Kunsan was overshadowed at the time by the victory at Seoul and the linkup of the allied northern and southern beachheads.

But some tough tankers say probably no other operation in Korea brought so much terrain and strategic advantage at such a small cost in lives.

The Masan front bristled with Communist positions when Maj. Gen. William B. Kean outguessed wily Red commanders down south.

Obviously Chinju was the first objective. But Kean threw his first punch to the south instead. Infantry clawed a hole in the Red lines at Chingdong.

Then Kean formed "Task Force Torman," led by young Capt. Charles Torman of Keene, N. H.

Torman's tank infantry team made a classic end run, southwest to Kosong, northwest to Saghon and then due north to Chinju. It swept to the southern outskirts of Chinju just as a co-ordinated attack moved over the hills into the town from the east.

Boxed in from two sides, the Reds pulled back and ruined Chinju was captured with only a handful of casualties.

Torman was hurt by a mine but his wounds proved to be only painful.

Kean had a new task force ready to lash out from Chinju under command of Lt. Col. W. G. Dolvin of Greensboro, Ga., who had taught infantrymen tank warfare at Fort Benning. Dolvin in the next three days and four nights proved he could make blackboard solutions work on the battlefield.

The retreating Reds had positions prepared. They thought the blown bridge at Chinju would delay American armor and give the tired communist foot soldiers the time to reorganize.

Dolvin fooled them. His tanks dragged the motorized American infantry vehicles across the river with towlines.

At 6 a. m. Sept. 26, task force Dolvin knifed into the soft communist line. It had plenty of power — two companies of Sherman and Pershing tanks plus two crack infantry companies. A young infantry battalion commander, Lt. Col. Bernard G. Teeters of Park Falls, Wis., a 1939 West Point classmate of Dolvin, led the doughboys.

Lt. John F. Hooks of Texarkana, Tex., was in the lead tank —named "Beautiful Mary" for his wife.

The column had to fight almost all the time.

At the obscure village of Hajon, an enemy regiment was firing from earthen and log dugouts. The column called in air support and hit the Reds with 16 planes, 4.2-inch mortars and 105-mm. artillery. Then the infantry charged uphill, crumpled before enemy fire, boldly moved up again and took the position.

The tanks roared ahead.

The Reds thought their defensive position would delay the column instead Dolvin's tanks overran four anti-tank guns before their crews could fire.

Farther on the column machine gunned down eight enemy engineers just as they were preparing to blow a bridge.

By then the column was so deep in the communist rear victory was sure.

The column killed at least 750 Reds. Once it chased 200 Reds down a road until they were killed.

American losses were negligible after the first day — and only a few of those losses were in men killed.

Task Force Dolvin went as far as Iri and then turned due north to take Nonsan on the Kum river. It traveled 138 miles in three days and four nights. It isolated all the men and guns the north Koreans had south of the 36th parallel in west Korea. Later they surrendered or were mopped up.

General Kean sent out a third column — led by Lt. Col. John T. Corley who had won fame as the First division's "fighting Irishman from Brooklyn" in Africa and western Europe. He is from 308 Clinton street, in the borough of the Dodgers.

Corley and his column of Negro infantrymen followed Dolvin's path to Umyong and then punched in a left hook through Nomwon and over to the coast. On the way it liberated 91 American prisoners of war.

Scabrin, a new insecticide now under study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been found more potent than pyrethrum against flies.

Reports To Club On Glass Etching

On October 10th the Neighborly Neighbors extension club met at the home of Mrs. Tom Conaway. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Myron Harper reading the poem, "Christ is the Answer." The president, Mrs. Conaway, conducted the business meeting and reported on points brought up at the recent council meetings for the next year were named. Roll call was answered by giving a favorite recipe. Some yearly reports were filled out. Mrs. Harper was devotional leader, reading the 121st Psalm. Reports were given on the leader meetings for glass etching and textile painting, and sample glasses shown. Members brought textile painted and hot-iron-transfer decorated articles, to be the club exhibit at Achievement Day, and a showing was held. A committee was appointed to take and put up the exhibit. Catherine Scott reviewed the book, "Mrs. Mike," by Benedict and Nancy Freedman.

Hostess gifts were presented, and refreshments of coffee and doughnuts served.

One guest, Mrs. Bonnie Conaway, was present.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 9th at the home of Mrs. Jerry Vardeman.

Oklahoma Girl Chosen Queen Of Am. Royal

Thousands Attend Ceremony in Honor Of College Beauty

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—Miss Mary Ellen Ash, 21, of Muskogee, Okla., last night was crowned queen of the 1950 American Royal Live Stock and Horse show.

A glittering procession, rich in costuming, lighting and musical effects, preceded the announcement of the queen's name at the coronation ball in Municipal Auditorium. Thousands of persons atended the event.

Miss Ash, a 5-foot, 8-inch brunet is a senior at Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater. She represented that city in the queen contest.

41 Enter Competition

Forty-one young women from the mid-west area were candidates for the honor.

Sharing the applause were the two princesses, Miss Demaris Riddell, 19, of Scotts Bluff, Neb., and Miss Edna Blanchard, 19, of Amarillo, Tex.

The Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra played a march to signal the start of the colorful procession. As the queen's attendants entered the arena a color photograph of each girl was flashed on a 15 by 19 foot screen at one end of the arena.

Ten Ladies-In-Waiting

The 10 ladies-in-waiting, chosen from among the queen candidates, wore billowing pink gowns They were Joanne Schnell, Fayette, Mo.; Shirley Duckworth, Topeka, Kas; Ruth Harding, Eureka, Kas.; Rosemary Ellin, Springfield, Mo.; Dorothy Ann Warner, Enid, Okla.; Nancy Jane Lindsey, Lawrence, Kas.; Patricia Larkin, El Dorado, Kas.; Lee Ellen Creasman, McCook, Neb.; Shirley Pritchard, Clarence, Okla.; and Mae Patterson, Clinton, Ark.

The two princesses, wearing white and silver gowns, entered next.

Then with a fanfare of trumpets and roll of drums, Miss Ash, the queen, entered. She wore a gold dress, trailing a 35-foot train.

She was met at the foot of the throne by Senator Harry Darby (R-Kas), president of the American Royal, who escorted her to the center of the stage and presented her to the audience.

Beaver is Shocked

HELENA, Mont. —(AP)— While fishery men were operating an electrical shocking machine in Little Prickly Pear Creek, stunning fish so they could be weighed, measured and tagged, a beaver swam between the electrodes.

The startled animal leaped from the water twice, then sank. The crew on the machine hauled the dam builder to the bank and in 45 minutes the animal recovered and scurried away to resume his wood-cutting.

Bored? Just Go Shopping

NEW ULM, Minn. —(AP)— Sandra J. Koosmann, age three and a half, got bored when she and her mother were taking a nap. So she went shopping.

In a grocery store she helped herself to two bottles of cream, a can of soup, candy, bubble gum and cookies. She bobbed her head yes when the checker asked her if her mother had sent her and went out with her bag of groceries. But no one noticed when she added a new purse, a toy sewing machine and a little clock at another store. In a third store busy clerks paid no attention when she tried on a new pair of shoes. Leaving her red sandals she wore them out of the store But her bag was heavy and she set it on the sidewalk and went into a fourth store. There a friend of the family spotted her and suggested a soft drink. That slowed her down until now frantic parents caught up. Pappa M. E Koosmann found her bag on the sidewalk and retraced her trip, paying as he went.

How Medical Airlift Spells Survival in Korea

Wounded Have Better Chance to Live In a War Vets Call Toughest Ever.

MEDICAL AIRLIFT BEGINS up front at a clearing station wherever the fighting is going on in Korea. Wounded being loaded aboard this helicopter will be at a surgical hospital in 16 minutes.

By HARRY PRESS
NEA Special Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA — (NEA)—The Korean fighting, say veterans who have lived through other wars, is tougher than anything they've seen. But in one respect the soldier is getting a break—if he is wounded, his chances of survival are better.

Primarily because of the airlift for wounded, the death rate among patients admitted to the Army Medical Corps' evacuation hospital in Korea is believed to be the lowest for any war in this country's history.

A unification of effort, between the Medical Corps and the Military Air Transport Service, is responsible for that record. MATS' planes, used to bring supplies to Korea in the airlift from California, are transformed into flying ambulances when the cargo is unloaded.

The real story of the medical airlift, and how it helps save lives, begins on Hill 201, along the Naktong river, or on South Mountain in Seoul, or anywhere American troops are fighting.

A man is shot, or a mortar blast fells him, or a grenade rolls into his foxhole and explodes. Then an aid man, such as Sgt. Roberto Cordoba, goes to work. Listen to his company commander, Lt. Nicholas Gombos, of Bakersfield, Calif., talk with pride:

"Sometimes I think that Cordoba doesn't care what happens to himself. I've seen him crawl out under enemy machine-gun fire to get a wounded man. He'd lie on top of the guy to protect him, give him first aid, and then, believe it or not, he'd stick around long enough to make out the medical tag and tie it to the man's uniform. Then he'd drag him down to safety."

All over Korea, medical men like Roberto Cordoba are thinking of others first, and many of them are getting wounded themselves.

Doctors give the man emergency treatment—pain-killers and especially the fabulous new antibiotics to halt infection—then begins the sometimes agonizingly slow trip, in an ambulance, truck or jeep, over tortuous mountain dirt roads so narrow that traffic can go only one way.

Korean boys, aided by enlisted men, carry in the litters and put them on the wooden floor, dampened to keep down dust. Tags are quickly examined, in the dim light, to determine priority of treatment. The most urgent cases are carried into an operating room set up between blackboards in what was once a fourth-grade classroom.

Ambulatory cases sit in tiny chairs in a corridor, awaiting their turn. Then suddenly all look up, at a whirring, clattering sound. It is an Air Rescue Service helicopter, another arm of MATS, landing to evacuate patients.

The doctors quietly point out the cases which have to go out immediately—the others will be taken on a trip lasting almost three hours to a surgical hospital, by ambulance at 10 miles an hour to a railroad station, and then aboard a streetcar powered with a gasoline engine. They call it the "Doodlebug."

But Air Force Lt. Jim Jernigan of Sinton, Tex., is waiting with his 'copter, and litter-bearers are carrying out the two patients who are to fly to that same hospital. They'll be there in 16 minutes.

Lives are saved on battlefronts in direct proportion to the speed with which they reach an operating room, and the smoothness of their trip.

Before dusk comes, Lieut. Jernigan is to make six trips. He and his fellow helicopter and L-5 observation plane pilots fly daily from dawn to darkness on patient evacuation and rescue missions such as these.

Lieut. Jernigan flies on the edge of the valley, seemingly too close to the hills, on one of his trips back to the hospital.

"I do that because I can save maybe three minutes on the round-trip," he explains. "Those minutes might be important to someone."

SAME TRIP BY TRAIN that lasted 16 minutes in a 'copter would take more than three hours. But wounded who can't fly, or those less critically injured, find haven in this modern hospital car which was rushed to Korea from the United States.

ATOM-CARRIER OF THE FUTURE?—A combination submarine and aircraft carrier with atom-bomb-carrying aircraft is reported receiving consideration of top military planners. How such a craft might look is depicted above by a "Mechanix Illustrated" artist. The undersea monster would be about the size of a heavy cruiser, would pack eight-inch cannon, rocket missiles and torpedo tubes. Its Sunday punch would be its jet planes carrying the atom bomb.

What's in a Name? World Affairs!

PRAGUE— (AP) —Prague avenues named after British Field Marshal Lord Montgomery and American General Dwight D. Eisenhower ought to be rechristened, a reader wrote in to the newspaper "Mlada Fronta."

"These gentlemen, initiators of a new war, are also enemies of the English and American nations," he argued.

Study Course For Dresden P. T. A.

The Dresden P. T. A. met at the Dresden school on Monday, October 2, at 8:00 o'clock. The meeting opened with group singing and Mrs. Frank Van Natta gave the invocation.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. N. W. Dorrance explained the purpose of the Constitutional Amendment No. 1 and urged all members to vote at the November election.

Mrs. Charles Romig presented the first lesson from the Study Course in a most interesting way and led the discussion following it.

The hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Dick Whitfield, Miss Dorothy Fidler and Mrs. Ed Van Natta served refreshments.

The State Highway Patrol will presen ta Safety Program and movies at the next meeting to be held at the school on Monday evening, Nocember 6.

Private Ocean Grows Oysters

NEW YORK—(AP)—Since Colonial days, Long Island, New York, has been one of the few places where land under the ocean can be owned. As a result the bays around the island have an important place in the oyster industry. Oyster farmers grow their crops in their private ocean.

It takes five years to grow an oyster. Emphasis is on quality When the crop is "ripe" it is harvested. Some of the oysters are shipped fresh, often by air to distant points. Others are canned.

"WHERE MEN LIKE TO SHOP"

Donnell Here On October 23

Senator Forrest C. Donnell will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally held at the court house Monday, October 23, at 8:15 p .m., Carl G. Schrader, Pettis county chairman, has announced.

Last night the Republican community meeting at Dresden was well attended with Mayor Herb Studer the principal speaker. Mrs. Lulu Wheeler, Dresden schoolteacher, directed her pupils in a school program, beginning with a patriotic number. The lower grades sang two of their school songs, then the boys of the upper grades gave two old favorites, "Taking Nellie Home' 'and "Oh, Susanna." A girls' trio sang "Farewell to Summer" and "Love's Old Sweet Song," with the program finale being a piano duet by Mrs. Dorrance and Mrs. Pearl Edwards.

Mrs. Wheeler then turned the program over to Carl G. Schrader, county chairman of the Republican committee, who introduced the candidates and Mayor Studer, who in his speech endorsed each of the candidates individually, and discussed the salient features of a good administration in county or city government.

Fritz Hintz, committeeman, and Mrs. Pearl Hintz, committeewoman, made all the preparations for the meeting, with the Dresden PTA serving refreshments.

Monday night, a Republican community meeting will be held at Elder Ridge school, with E. A. Daniel ,committeeman, and Mrs. Cyrus Charles, committeewoman, in charge.

Loyal Rebekah Lodge No. 260 held its regular meeting in American Legion Hall October 13 with a large attendance. Full degree work was given to one new member.

Plans for the annual contributive dinner to be held October 20 at the hall were made. The time will be 6:00 o'clock in the evening and all Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and families are expected. Each is asked to bring a covered dish and own service.

Visitors from LaMonte and Kirksville and one from Kansas City attended the meeting.

A social hour was held at which time refreshments were served.

Scrap Rubber Moves To Red China

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 14.—(AP)—Scrap rubber is moving in increasing volume through San Francisco to Communist China.

Reports to the U. S. Department of Commerce showed today that 2,000 tons moved through the port in September. This was 20 times July's volume, and equalled the total for all of last year.

A consignment of 300 tons of rubber scrap was being assembled here for loading Monday on the Norwegian freighter Lisholt.

The customs service said such shipments are not subject to export license. The only rubber banned from export is airplane tires, whether scrapped, used or new.

Harpo Meets the President

Harpo Marx (left), one of the three famous Marx brothers of show fame, chats with President Truman at the Fairfield-Suisun, Calif., Air Force base as they visited at the residence of Col. Joe W. Kelly (center), the base commander. The president was Kelly's guest while his plane was serviced for its hop across the Pacific to Honolulu, from where he will fly to a meeting with Gen. MacArthur somewhere in the Pacific. Marx was on hand to entertain Korean war wounded at the base hospital. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Burma Transport Mixup Brings Hunger

RANGOON—(AP)—Snarled communications in Central Burma have produced a rice shortage over widely scattered areas, driving villagers to eat bamboo seeds for existance, it was authoritatively stated here. Sources close to the Brumese agricultural department said conditions were verging upon outright famine.

The sources placed the district most seriously affected as pro-Communist Yamethih, deep in Burma's dry zone. Fighting in Central Burma has damaged or clogged many irrigation canals.

Polly Gets the Safe Crackers

MILAN —(AP)— A pet talking parrot is credited with frustrating an attempt to loot the Banca Popolaire of Milan and saving the institution a possible loss of $16,000.

Bank employes said burglars broke into the safe but fled without taking any money. They believe the bank's pet parrot, caged in the room, may have scared off the safe crackers.

Lion and Woman Escape Wild Dogs

WAU, Sedan—(AP)—A pack of wild dogs chased a lion into a native hut but were scared away by the shouts of an old woman.

The lion, authorities reported, sauntered out after the dogs had fled, uninterested in the howling woman.

Your support will be sincerely appreciated.

Armstrong Fought Communism!
In 1940, the Americanism Commission of the American Legion asked O. K. Armstrong to prepare an article on Communist and subversive influences in public school textbooks. After exhaustive study, O K. wrote
"Treason in the Textbooks" which exposed the anti-American teachings of Communist-front authors. The article, published in the American Legion Magazine, September, 1940, forced revision of numerous textbooks in use in the United States.

We, the undersigned ex-servicemen who personally know O. K. Armstrong, urge you to vote for a man who will stand up against all subversive isms and fight for the American way of life.

Disturbed On Curb On The Housing Boom

Builders Claim Prop Knocked Out In Prosperity

By T. E. Applegates

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—The government tried to curb the housing boom this week end professional builders quickly cried that its action knocks out a main prop of the nation's prosperity.

New federal credit regulations boost the amount you must pay down to buy a new house and lower the number of years allowed you to pay off the mortgage.

Their aim: "To help reduce the currently high inflationary pressures" and "to assure that materials and labor required for the defense program will be available when needed."

Will this mean depression, as some home builders contend, or stabilization for the building industry? Opinions differ sharply.

The Federal Reserve System and Housing and Home Finance Agency said the rules are "geared to the marketing of housing production of not more than 800,000 to 850,000 new housing units next year."

But builders who started more than a million residential units last year for the first time in history and expect to reach around 1,300,000 this year, predict 500,000 in 1951 may be a more accurate estimate.

Some of them cry "depression," say such a cutback could rock the domestic economy and bring widespread unemployment by spring.

They point out a high level of housing activity stimulates business not only for materials suppliers, but for makers of furniture, refrigerator sr.anges, rugs, plumbing and heating devices and a host of other household equipment.

All these will be affected by a cutback in home building.

Extent of the cut will be determined by home buyers' reaction to these rules put into effect this week:

Non-veterans must pay down from 10 per cent on houses costing under $5,000 to 50 per cent on houses priced above $24,250. Veterans will pay down 5 to 45 per cent over the same range.

Mortgages must be paid off in 20 years except for houses presently valued at $7,000 or less where 25 years is allowed.

Whether the builders' gloomy view of 1951 prospects is justified remains to be seen.

Construction More Costly

Construction costs have shot upward since last spring; but lumber prices, a large factor in costs, are skidding again. Many building materials have been in short supply; but the builders believe this situation will improve within a few months.

Wage levels have been and still are rising. Higher levels of personal income could offset, at least in part, the restraint imposed by the new credit curbs.

Even before the latest restrictions were disclosed, there was evidence new housing starts had dropped below the 800,000-a-year level aimed at by the regulations.

Myron L. Matthews, vice-president of the Dow Service, New York, and a leading analyst of construction costs and trends, said today that "the desertion of the home building field to the extent it has developed is more than government officials bargained for."

Probably not all of this desertion can be blamed on tightening of mortgage credit. Building activity normally lightens at this season when inclement weather is in the offing in many areas.

The real effect of this week's credit curbs may not be apparent on actual construction sites until spring. But already the big project builders who make their plans long in advance are casting a jaundiced eye on prospects for selling their output.

William J. Levitt, whose Long Island firm has built an entire community of thousands of small homes, said Levitt & Sons is "drastically revising its 1951 building plans."

He estimated the nation's new home total next year might drop as low as 500,000 units. Except for the years of World War II, this would be the smallest building year since 1938.

Thomas P. Coogan of Miami, Fla., who heads the National Association of Home builders, said the new controls "may prolong the housing shortage indefinitely."

The NAHB contends that applications for government-insured mortgages on new single homes have fallen off 50 per cent since an earlier stiffening of credit terms effected July 19, which ended the "no down payment" provision in some home purchases by veterans.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, with which most of the construction trades are affiliated, was anotherother critic of the federal action. He, like many of the home builders, charged the new rules virtually exclude low and middle income families from the housing market, contending they will be unable to meet the down payments required.

There has been some talk that the new terms on homes covered by government-insured mortgages may push buyers into a scramble for older houses with privately-financed deals.

But most private lenders already have been requiring sharply higher down payments on older construction, and there is as yet no indication that the new federal regulations will narrow this spread.

Bright Lights Lure An Eager Beaver

BUTTE, Mont.—(AP)—An eager beaver that never had it so good in the woods really had itself a time in Butte's Columbia Park for a spell.

The critter moved in quietly, took up quarters in a small stream between the roller coaster and the merry-go-round and moved in hungrily on the park's succulent trees.

Ted Beach, superintendent of the gardens, soon noticed something was doing his trees a great of no good so he called for help from the game wardens who trapped the 45-pound animal and carted it away from the bright lights and music.

Policemen's Ball On Friday Night

Friday night the Sedalia Police Department will hold its Fourteenth Annual Policeman's Ball at Convention hall, Liberty Park. Funds obtained through the ball go toward the purchase of additional equipment not furnished police officers by the city of Sedalia. This year ten-percent of the funds will be held back for a Christmas Party for needy children in Sedalia.

Lee Brandt and his seven-piece band will play for the evening of dancing which will start at 9:00 o'clock and end at 12:00 o'clock midnight.

In the past a buffet dinner was served following the dance to visiting officers, but this has been dispensed with this year and the police will hold only the dance.

October Session Held By Campbranch P.T.A.

The Campbranch P.T.A. met in regular session at the school house Friday night October 6th. The meeting was opened by singing two songs led by Mrs. L. C. Neitzert. Devotional was given by Mrs. Milton Lazenby on the Apostle Paul. Reports were made by the secretary and treasure. Mrs. Robert Tissler and Mrs. Glen Rhoads reported on the county council meeting which they attended.

Harold Barrick, Sedalia attorney was present and gave an informative talk on amendment No. 1.

The November meeting will be on Nov. 3rd at which time members of the Pettis County Historical Society will present a program of films and interesting historical facts.

Sedalians In Clinic Orchestra

Twenty-three members of the Smith-Cotton high school orchestra went to Warrensburg Friday, where they participated in a district orchestra clinic. The Clinic orchestra was conducted by Hugh Williams of the Central Missouri State college, and was composed of selected students from the high schools of Marshall, Independence, Eldon, Warrensburg and Sedalia. The orchestra closed its activities by presenting a concert for the Central Missouri Teachers Association which was holding its annual convention in Warrensburg.

Conference Of Two Hours By President And Gen. MacArthur

form and surrounded by more than a dozen chairs.

The hut is just off the main airstrip one mile from the quonset hut settlement surrounding the air terminal.

Thus with a handshake and a smile, the President started his first face-to-face conference with the United Nations Korean commander in a strange setting on a barren, treeless sandspit far in the western Pacific.

The setting was all the more unbelievable considering the fact Mr. Truman was at his White House desk less than four days ago and more than 7,000 miles away.

After General MacArthur first greeted Mr. Truman, the President smiled broadway, saying, "how are you, general? I'm glad you are here.

The pair stood handclasped for several minutes in response to "one more" shouts from photographers.

Finally the President cut off the picture session and started for the car with the general. At the door of the car the President stood aside and motioned the general to get in first.

The officers and MacArthur were all tieless in open-throated khaki shirts in contrast with the full, beribboned uniforms of the presidential defense aides.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Pacific fleet commander who was added to the party last night at Honolulu, joined in the handshakes at the side of the plane.

Admiral Radford was invited to join the party by Mr. Truman to give the Navy participation in the conference, on account of the illness in Washington of Rear Admr. Robert L. Dennison, naval aide to the President.

Also in the Dewdrop party was striking Bernice Anderson, secretary to ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup. She was the only woman in the party.

Party members stressed that the first item on the agenda here would be plans for the reconstruction and rebuilding of Korea.

Once that item was entertained, the entire field of far eastern problems was open for discussion.

While the President and MacArthur waited to leave the airfield the President said:

"I have been a long time meeting you, general."

MacArthur replied:

"I hope it won't be so long the next time."

Before sitting down across the conference table the President and the general drove to a near-by quonset hut, painted white, for a personal chat before continuing to what the Army has dubbed "conference house."

The President will use the quonset hut as temporary White House during his brief stay on Wake.

Both MacArthur and Mr. Truman had breakfast before their rendezvous.

After the airfield ceremonies the principals motored to the sun-blistered quonset on the edge of the ocean, facing the rising sun.

The President and general went into a tiny living room. The President selected a hard bamboo chair and MacArthur chose a settee.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross expressed the opinion that "I think the conference started in the car."

The formal conference was suspended temporarily at 9:10 a. m. Wake time (4:10 p. m. Saturday, EST), and the President went to his quarters for a rest.

They concluded their shirt-sleeved conference (time not available but this portion of the dispatch was sent about 10 a. m. Wake time), and both were expected to be airborne by noon.

Mr. Truman termed his personal meeting with General MacArthur "very satisfactory and pleasant."

Man To Man Talk

The brevity of the formal conference confirmed that the basic business was done solely by the two principals in their hour's face-to-face isolated talk shortly after the President's arrival.

Even more significant was the fact that President Truman and MacArthur spent the first hour alone in intimate conversation without any staff members present.

Associates of both men were of the opinion that more actual work was done in that one hour than during the entire full conference with all 12 participants present.

The conferees included General Bradley, Admiral Radford, Harriman, Jessup, Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Dean Rusk, Undersecretary of State in charge of Far Eastern affairs; Charles S. Murphy, the president's speech writer; U. S. Ambassador to Korea John J. Muccio, Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney of MacArthur's civil government section, and Ross.

The President and MacArthur left the quonset hut after their hour's talk and drove to "conference house."

Never has a presidential procession moved in such humble vehicles. But it was quite in keeping with the Spartan atmosphere of this distant outpost.

The ancient Chevrolet was improved somewhat by the huge flapping presidential and American flags.

As the principals moved across the island, the car was preceded and followed by jeep-loads of white-helmeted MP's. Another jeep was filled with secret service men who looked strangely out of place in business suits and felt hats.

The MP's carried carbines and pistols.

As the car drove across the island the President and General MacArthur appeared to be talking energetically. The President gestured with his hands and MacArthur nodded his head vigorously.

Open Campaign In The County

George H. Christopher, congressman of the sixth district, who is running for re-election on November 7, will open his campaign in Pettis county on Monday and Tuesday, October 16 and 17. While in Pettis county, Mr. Christopher will be the principal speaker at a Democrat rally to be held in the Green Ridge School, Monday night, and will also deliver an address in the LaMonte school on Tuesday night. Monday afternoon, Mr. Christopher plans to make a visit around the Smithton community, and on Tuesday afternoon will visit in the vicinity of Houstonia and Hughesville. Rep Christopher's home is in Amoret, Mo.

Fellowship Dinner Friday

One hundred members of the First Congressional and Central Presbyterian church attended the fellowship dinner given Friday night for Dr. and Mrs. Glen Lindley, who were recently married.

The dinner was given under the auspices of the Women's Service Guild of the church.

After the supper a short program was presented. Mrs. Henry Holst, president of the Guild, introduced Arthur Hoffman who was in charge of the evening program. He introduced William Hurlbut, Jr., who on behalf of the church presented Dr. and Mrs. Lindley with a purse as a wedding gift.

Following the dinner Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stafford, Jr., was introduced and Mr. Stafford then showed pictures of his trip to Europe. Mr. Stafford's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stafford were for years valued members of the Central Presbyterian church.

Honors Go To Oklahomans

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—Two Oklahomans took top honors today as the American Royal Livestock show opened its 52nd annual performance.

Richard Dressen, 15-year-old Future Farmers of America member from Guthrie, Okla., saw his 965-pound Hereford adjudged the grand champion steer of the Junior Livestock Division.

The steer, known as "Vandy," was picked as the best of 321 animals in the finals of the event. A total of 959 animals had been entered.

Carl Hartwig, Alva, Okla., at 13 the youngest exhibitor of the show, won the reserve championship with his 1,100-pound Shorthorn.

Dressen's steer was judged the top animal displayed by F.F.A. members, and Hartwig's was the top animal displayed by 4-H Club members.

While the judging was going on in the arena, some 175,000 persons turned out to witness the annual Royal parade in downtown Kansas City.

In this event another Oklahoman was the center of attention. She was Miss Mary Ellen Ash, Muskogee, Okla., selected as the American Royal Queen to reign over the livestock and horse show until next Saturday night.

Twenty two teams of college students from 20 states took part today in the intercollegiate judging competition. The results will be announced tomorrow.

While in Jefferson City Miss Long visited the state capitol and mansion.

Miss Botts as Alto Singer

Miss Ruth Ann Botts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Botts, route 5, Sedalia, who is a business major at Central college in Fayette, has been selected by the director of the annual Messiah Chorus as alto singer in that group.

The chorus will present the complete program at Christmas time at the school.

Mrs. Bacon Improves

The condition of Mrs. Stella Bacon, of 1014 South Lamine avenue, who is now at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Brown, 212 Oak street, Poplar Bluff, is improved. Mrs. Bacon has been receiving treatment both in Poplar Bluff and St. Louis.

Music Modes

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 —(AP)—The new Broadway musical, "Call Me Madam," is blessed with probably the top flight array of talent that you could recruit in the theatrical field. And it is a splendid, gay and colorful show, although not quite up to expectations.

Briefly, I found lagging moments in the story part of the show although it seemed that authors Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse had an infallable idea in basing their plot on an American woman ambassador to a tiny European country. It has all the potential qualities of a middle European operetta, but the spark plug of the show is the ebullient Ethel Merman who plays the role of the woman ambassador.

Miss Merman's enchanting performance as Mrs. Sally Adams, the woman ambassador, combines with one of the best song scores that Irving Berlin has ever written to make this show an exciting evening.

The story is based obviously upon the suggestion of the career of Mrs. Perla Mesta, the current U. S. minister to Luxembourg and who went to that post from her position as one of the most celebrated hostesses in government circles of Washington, D. C. However, the producers make a special note in their programs that "neither the character of Mrs. Sally Adams, nor Miss Ethel Merman, resembles any other person alive or dead."

Which is true, for when the high-voiced, comedy-minded Miss Merman gets on stage, she is pure simple Miss Merman. And she's an exciting honey, especially with her singing of "The Hostess With the Mostes' on the Ball" and "The Best Thing for You Would be Me." Composer Berlia, with both his music and lyrics, has done a blue ribbon job for this.

There is one song they have, "They Like Ike," which contemplates the possibility of General Eisenhower being the next occupant of the White House. Eisenhower was in the first night audience, and you couldn't tell from his poker face what his reaction was to that song. However, the audience kept up such applause that the singer had to come back for five reprises.

Miss Merman, as the American ambassador, breaks all rules of State Department protocol, but she gets things done. She wins Lichtenberg over to being an ally of the U. S. and also arranges for the princess of Lichtenberg to wed a nice young American boy who is on her staff. In her spare moments she promotes her own romance with the Lichtenburg prime minister, a role played by the film actor, Paul Lukas.

In the end, Ambassador Merman is triumphant and the royal heads of Lichtenburg decorate her with a golden medal. And it is a typical Ethel Merman ending.

As they decorate her, they inform her that instead of "Madame Ambassadoress" she will now have the privilege to the title of "dame."

Miss Merman, wearing a gown that seems to be made of all of Broadway's neon lights, yells in protest: "So I'm being demoted."

Israelis Leave Red Labor Group

TEL AVIV, Israel—(AP)—A national convention of Histadrut—the Jewish general confederation of labor—has approved its executive committee's action withdrawing the organization from the Communist-controlled World Federation of Trade Unions.

Histadrut has decided that for the moment it would not be a member of world organizations backed by either eastern or western powers. Histadrut said it has no desire to play any role in the "cold war" between rival World Federations of Trade Unions.

The U. S. is self-sufficient in most fats and oils.

Busy Week For Candidates

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—The two Missouri candidates for U. S. Senator continue next week their cross-country marathon — generally on different roads.

Republican Senator Forrest C. Donnell will keep his re-election campaign confined to the southern half of Missouri for the week. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., his Democratic opponent, is confining most of his week's work to northern Missouri. But at the end of the week, Hennings will get into the southern part of the state for three days.

Hennings—Monday in Palmyra, Shelbyville, Edina, LaBelle and Lewistown; Tuesday in Memphis, Lancaster, Unionville, Milan and Kirksville; Wednesday in Macon, Marceline, Keytesville, Glasgow, Fayette, Boonvile and Sedalia, and Thursday in Marshall, Lexington, Richmond, Warrensburg and Clinton.

Friday, Hennings will be in Springfield, Saturday in Thayer and Sikeston and Sunday he will appear at Democratic organization meetings in Scott county.

Donnell — Monday in Rolla, Waynesville, Lebanon, Marshfield and Springfield; Tuesday in Hartville, Ava, Ozark, Aurora and Purdy; Wednesday in Branson, Galena, Cassville, Pineville and Neosho; Thursday in Buffalo, Bolivar, Greenfield, Lamar and Carthage; Friday in Stockton, Eldorado Springs, Nevada, Butler, Harrisonville and Clinton, and Saturday in Osceola, Hermitage, Warsaw, Versailles and Camdenton.

Missouri Pacific Women To Meet

The Missouri Pacific Women's Club of Sedalia will hold its first meeting of the new year at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, October 16, at the St. Patrick's school hall.

This is the first meeting of the new year and will be a combined business and social meeting. Every member is asked to bring a new member and all mothers, wives and daughters of Missouri Pacific Boosters are eligible.

An interesting program has been planned in keeping with Halloween.

Democratic Women To Meet Tuesday

The Pettis County Democratic Women's club will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Maccabee hall on East Fifth street with the president, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, to preside. Mrs. E. L. Birdsong is chairman to be in charge of the social session.

Seven Airmen Killed In "Exercise Emperor"

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Three Royal Air Force planes and a Moscquito bomber believed to be from the Belgiam air force collided in two separate crashes tonight. At least seven airmen were killed.

All four planes were taking part in the giant "Exercise Emperor" in which aircraft from the United States and western Europe were helping test Britain's air defenses.

Personals

Mrs. D. P. Dyer, Sixth street and Grand avenue, is in Chicago visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edgar McQuiddy and family.

Miss Shirley Ann and Wanda Lee Young had as week-end guests: Joyce Fahrenbrink of Jefferson City, Janie Brownfield, Pilot Grove and Marcella Bergmann of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cox and sons, Elmer and Champ, of Cimarron, Kas., have returned to their home after spending several days with Mr. Cox's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Colvin, 916 South Stewart avenue.

Mrs. Bert H. Barnard, 308 East Second has as her guest her neice Mrs. Margaret Keig of San Francisco, California. Mrs. Keig will visit for several weeks unless called by armed services as duty as a registered nurse. She was with the Red Cross in the Second World War.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scotten returned home Thursday night from Columbus, O., where Mr. Scotten attended the national convention of county superintendents. While there he led in a group discussion on the subject: "Clarifying the Functions of the County School Superintendents and in Reorganization of the School Districts."

Joint Rally At Park Thursday

The Sedalia Federation of Labor and the Missouri Pacific Shop Federations will hold a joint rally and entertainment at Liberty Park, Thursday night for their members, families and friends.

The two organizations have gone to great lengths to arrange for a full evening of entertainment which is to be furnished by members of the WHB radio station entertaining talent. Short talks will also be given by heads of the two groups preceding the entertainment.

Among those to appear on the porgram are "The Sons of the Great West", Don Sullivan, Frank Wicarde and Comedian Tobey all of WHB.

Royal Cowger, is chairman of the entertainment and W. J. Donath of the publicity and advertising committee.

Members of the committee indicate a full evening of enjoyment for those present.

Scientist Who Discovered ACTH Works In Dingy Basement Lab

By AL OSTROW
NEA Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO —(NEA)— Dr. Choh Hae Li, the only man who successfully isolated five wonder working hormones, has no apologies for the somewhat dingy laboratory in which he works.

The University of California wanted to provide a fancy setup in keeping with his scientific eminence, but the 38-year-old genius of biochemistry declined with thanks.

"I've had so much luck here," he explained, "that it would be silly to take a chance and move."

To reach Dr. Li's laboratory in the basement of a university building, you've got to duck under the pipes of a boiler room. Every so often top executives of giant corporations do just that. The most recent emissary offered Dr. Li $100,000 a year if he would transfer his research projects to the company's payroll.

* * *

"I appreciate the value of money and the comforts it could buy for my family, but I couldn't accept the job," the youthful looking discoverer of ACTH explained. "The company would want to patent my discoveries and make money out of them. And they'd be justified in doing so if I were working for them.

"But I feel that my findings should belong to the entire public, to benefit all mankind as much as possible. Besides, I can get along on my university salary —modest as it is."

The university credits him with being the first man to isolate the adrenocorticotripic hormone — better known as ACTH—seven years ago. ACTH opened new avenues for the treatment of arthritis, rheumatic fever, hay fever, asthma, allergies, eczema and nephritis. It is being used in research seeking the cause and cure of alcoholism and some forms of mental illness.

Accomplishments of ACTH have received so much acclaim that its Cantonese-born discoverer is distressed by the fanfare. His theory is that human welfare would be better served by an all-out research offensive to determine why the hormone relieves pain and suffering than by experiments with its immediate utilization.

* * *

However, Dr. Li is co-operating closely with scores of researchers throughout the world who are experimenting with practical applications of the hormones he isolated at California, where he began as a graduate student in 1935.

Six years ago, he produced in his laboratory the growth hormone, which may have eventual application to human growth problems. He isloated ISCH, a hormone without which reproduction is impossible, and which may some day solve the problem of childless couples. He discovered the lactogenic hormone, which makes it possible for women to nurse their babies, and was the first biochemist to isolate FSH, a hormone that controls fertility.

DR. LI: $100,000 a year is nice, but there's mankind to be considered.

The scientist's three children—a 10-year-old son, We-hi, and two daughter, Ann-Si, 5, and I-Fan, 2—are unimpressed by their father's accomplishments.

"You don't know much," they inform him tartly when he stumbles over a particularly complex "why, daddy?"

Dr. Li agrees that he doesn't know much about the astounding chemical magic of hormones, although he has devoted his life to their study.

"Twenty years from now," he said seriously, "I hope to know something about the pituitary gland, its secretions, and their effects. Until then, I cannot permit anything to interfere with my studies. And my findings will probably only point the way to further studies, which will take more time to complete."

The Sedalia Council of Girl Scouts met Thursday morning with Mrs. A. C. Freeburg presiding. Reports were given by the chairmen of various committees. Mrs. Elmo Harlan told the Council of the meeting of the Leader's Club on October 3. A request was made for a candy sale, the office secretary was instructed to write for details of the same. Mrs. Cline Cain, organization chairman, reported most of the troops as meeting, but she still needs help. If you enjoy girls won't you call 521 and say you will help? Mrs. Helman announced training days for next week. Wednesday for Senior leaders, Thursday for Intermediate leaders and Friday for Brownie leaders. All the meetings will begin at 1:30. She asks all leaders to come, plans for November will be discussed. If you have made plans, come and share them.

The Agnes Quin Memorial Fund was set up. Each member of the Council contributed the amount that she would have spent for flowers at the time of Miss Quin's funeral. This amount was used as a nucleus for the fund and additional amounts will be added each month. The fund will be used to pay registrations for girls who sincerely want to belong, but whose parents cannot afford it. The Girl Scout office will be happy to receive contributions for this fund from any friends of Miss Quin.

Radios in Canada's Schools

TORONTO —(AP)— For 30 minutes every day during the school term children in approximately 20,000 schoolrooms in English-speaking Canada gather around a radio or loudspeaker to hear their history, science, music and English studies supplemented by dramatized versions of their texts.

The school broadcasts on a nation-wide basis began in 1942. Since that time 6,764 schools have applied for and received from the department of transport free receiving licenses. Hundreds of rural schools have a small mantel radio around which the pupils gather with their teacher to hear the programs. In larger schools a loud-speaker system is installed.

W. S. Rutherford, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario, says the programs are very helpful in stimulating the children's interest. Ontario, he says, is rapidly expanding her receiving network.

Israel Checks Motor Power

TEL AVIV, Israel — (AP) — The Israeli army is making a nation-wide check up of motorized power. The ministry of defense appointed five brigadiers to take a census of all vehicles that may be needed by the army.

They have already started work and are empowered to requisition for three weeks all mechanized and other types of vehicles, tractors, bulldozers, cranes, elevators, spare parts and even beasts of burden.

Kitten in a Real Roundup Of Mice

A four-month old kitten ha a real "field day" early Saturday in the barn loft of J. H. Stroup 2220 East Ninth street. Stroup found the kitten straddling nine mice and holding five more in its mouth when he went into his barn.

Stroup reported that the ambitious kitten is owned by Richard Stanley, 2221 East Ninth street.

The ox-eye weed is related to the sunflower.

Church Weddings of the Autumn Season And Other Social Events

Gayle Scruton Is Bride Of John Menefee

The marriage of Miss Gayle Grace Dorman Scruton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Scruton, Jr., 712 West Third street, and Mr. John Joseph Menefee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred William Menefee, 623 West Fourth street, was solemnized at the Sacred Heart Catholic church at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Rev. Father A. J. Brunswick, pastor of the church, officiated at the nuptial high mass. The double ring ceremony was used.

Smilax and palms formed the setting for the wedding with yellow pompom chrysanthemums on the altar and communion rail.

Preceding the service Mrs. Earl Paxton gave a prelude of organ music and accompanied Mr. Al Domingue who sang, "Mother Beloved" by Rev. D. P. Lord. Mrs. Paxton then played the processional. The men's choir sang the mass, Missa Salve Regina by Stehle and at the offertory Mr. Domingue sang "Ave Maria." Mrs. Paxton at the organ, played the recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ice blue bridal satin, designed with fitted bodice, long tapering sleeves ending in points at the wrist and very full skirt, bouffant over hoops and crinoline, which lengthened into a long cathedral train. The off-the-shoulder neckline was finished with a straight bertha of satin embroidered with ice blue pearls and iridescent beads. The yoke was of sheer illusion and her tiny Peter Pan collar was of satin embroidered in pearls and beads. Her baby cap of matching ice blue satin was trimmed with pearls and from the back of it fell a silk illusion of ice blue. She carried a cascade type bouquet of pale cream carnations showered with ivory ribbon.

Miss Marjorie Scruton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Mary Ann Menefee, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Jerry Engle and Miss Allene Hall. All four were in identical satin gowns of peacock blue shade, fashioned with tightly fitted bodices and large, softly tucked bertha collars flared over the shoulders. The bouffant skirts were of matching tulle, and their satin sashes tied in the back with large bustle bows. All wore satin mitts and satin ballerina slippers dyed to match their dresses. Their baby caps, made like that of the bride were trimmed at one side with pale yellow pompon chrysanthemums and the same flowers formed their cascade bouquets.

Mr. William Menefee, brother of the bridegroom, served his brother as best man.

Groomsmen and ushers were Mr. James Menefee, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Kenneth Ash, Mr. John Donahue and Mr. Joseph Lennartz.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with black accessories and her corsage was a purple orchid. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a brown faille suit with a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sedalia Country club. On the bride's table was a five-tier column wedding cake with yellow roses on the top and encircled with smilax and yellow roses. The club house was decorated with palms and burning tapers in candelabra.

Serving the guests were: Mrs. Joseph Glenn Herrick, Miss Betty Brosch, Miss Marilyn Volkart, Mrs. Jack Hawkins, Mrs. Calvin Rodgers and Mrs. Joseph Imhauser.

Mrs. Wayne Brent, of Kansas City, the former Miss Ruth Elaine Scruton, of Sedalia, a cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to St. Louis. For traveling the bride chose a red and black wool suit with which she work black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Smith-Cotton high school in the class of 1948 and attended Central Missouri State college at Warrensburg for one year where she was a member of Sigma Sigma sorority. For the past year she has been employed on the news staff of the Sedalia Democrat.

Mr. Menefee was graduated from the Sacred Heart high school in the class of 1947. He attended the St. Louis university in St. Louis for one year and is now with the W. J. Menefee Construction company.

Couple Wed At Christian Church

Miss Mary Louise Higgins, daughter of Mrs. Opal Higgins, 309 East Boonville street, became the bride of Mr. Howard Turner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Turner, route 5, Sedalia, at 8:00 o'clock Friday night, September 22, at the First Christian church. The Rev. David M. Bryan, pastor of the church, read the double ring service, before an altar setting of white gladioli, palms and burning tapers in cathedral standards.

Mrs. H. O. Foraker at the organ played the nuptial music and accompanied Mr. Robert Cowan, baritone, who sang, "Through the Years" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Donald Higgins, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline with wide white lace edging on the net yoke. The full skirt lengthened into a short train around which was very wide lace. A satin band embroidsrsd on either side with seed pearls held her fingertip length illusion veil in place and she carried a white prayerbook to which was attached a purple orchid showered with stephanotis.

Mrs. Bud Faulconer, of Independence, matron of honor wore a taffeta gown of delicate lavender shade styled with off-the-shoulder effect bodice waist, stole and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of dark pink carnations.

Miss Louella Smith of Excelsior Springs and Mrs. Robert Barbour, as bridesmaids wore gowns of purple taffeta, designed like that of the matron of honor. They carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Minta Sullivan and Miss Jacquelin Pierce lighted the candles. They wore dresses similar to those of the bridesmaids in deep lavender shade and their flowers were of white carnations.

Mr. Frank Hamilton, of St. Louis, served as best man and Mr. Bud Faulconer, of Independence and Mr. Roy Pollard, of Pleasant Green were ushers.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue satin dress with white gloves and black accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore green wool with accessories of brown. Both had corsages of white carnations.

A reception at which there were 50 guests was held following the ceremony with the matron of honor, the bridesmaids and candlelighters serving.

The couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and are now at home at 1009 East Sixth street. The bride wore for traveling a white suit with navy accessories and her corsage was an orchid.

The bride is employed at the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

Mr. Turner is a graduate of the Oklahoma university and is a member of the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Old furniture can be altered and given an entirely new appearance and perhaps a different use in the home. Such as cutting off the legs of an old table to make a coffee table. You can also remove the legs from a bookcase, making it flush with the floor, changing its lines. You can take off yards of gingerbread from a second-hand "find" to make it a clean-lined chest, or leave the trimmings, and, with a can of Enterprise white paint, touch it up to carry out a Victorian decor.

One may change the looks of a simple chest of drawers by doing a little free hand painting: such as painting a flower; perhaps a daisy around the knobs of the drawer; or make the knobs plaid by using a harmonizing color in Enterprise Quick-Dri enamel and drawing fine vertical and horizonal lines.

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

CASUAL DRESSES are more popular this season than in many years. There is a large number of all wool fabrics, but the most wanted are the rayon and cotton combinations. You'll find beautiful colors in gabardine; tiny checks in unusual color combinations and a new-type tweed. Dresses of this type are styled to be worn with smart accessories, bold costume jewelry and gay scarves. They go to church, office or to your club meetings. You'll find you'll never be overdressed, yet always smartly dressed—so add a new one to your wardrobe frequently. As a rule you'll have some accessories to wear with it and reduce the cost of a complete new outfit. These dresses are perfect to wear later under your winter coat, because most of the colors are pastels and high shades, and they are just right for your dark coats.

Careful Planning . . .

A bouquet correctly styled for the bride will complement her wedding gown and becomes her most important accessory. with us, careful planning of the bouquet for the bride is a necessity . . . for we want her to look her loveliest.

The candles were impressively lighted by officers of the society. After this ceremony, a tea was served by Mrs. Wm. Matthews, Mrs. R. S. Doll and their committees.

Tigers Shut-Out Hannibal, 21-0

Stout S-C Defense Stops Pirates Cold; Five Bengal Fumbles Erase Other Drives

Scoring Smith-Cotton touchdowns: Pummill, Burton, and Conley. Extra points: Keenes 3 (placements). Hannibal scoring: None.

Sedalia's Smith-Cotton Tigers, featuring a rock-ribbed defense which counter-balanced five Bengal backfield fumbles, scored in three of the four quarters to win their second CEMO conference game over Hannibal's Pirates 21-0.

The Pirates' ground attack was stopped cold by the charging Tiger line, gaining but 51 yards. Only three first and tens were recorded by the Hannibal backfield, two of these coming against the second string and the other via an off-side penalty against the starters.

There were no individual stars on the powerful Tiger forward wall, each man played a heads-up game, completely smothering the Pirate offense. Nine times the Tiger line held the Pirates on downs forcing them to kick.

Tigers Score Early

Sedalia's first score came in the opening minutes of the contest. After an 11-yard boot by Renick, the Hannibal punter, the Bengals took over on the Hannibal 41-yard line. With game captain Don Pummill, Floyd Burton and Art Conley bearing the brunt of the attack, S-C went the distance in eight plays. Pummill traveled the final three yards on an off-tackle smash. Warren Keenes added the extra point.

The Tiger offense sputtered the remainder of the first quarter and the majority of the second, being plagued by four fumbles, two of which were recovered by Hannibal. With four minutes left in the half, Hannibal tried a fourth-down run for a first down and failed. The ball went to the Bengals on the Pirate 45.

Long Pass Clicks

With the Hannibal defense packed tight to stop the Bengals' hard running attack, quarterback Warren Keenes wisely elected to throw one of the two S-C passes of the night. It clicked to Burton on the Pirate nine and he rambled on across the twin stripe for the Tigers' second marker. Keenes again added the point from placement.

The third period was almost a carbon copy of the first two. The Pirates were not able to gain through the air or over the Bengals' forward wall, but the Smith-Cotton boys seemed to have too many thumbs and continued to fumble. The Dow-charges finally pulled themselves together in the closing minutes of the third period and tallied their final touchdown.

Conley Scores Clincher

Taking another short Hannibal punt on the latter's 32-yard line, the Tigers scored on seven plays. Art Conley barrelled the final nine yards after Bill McCrary set the score up with an 11-yard journey around Hannibal's left end. Keenes added his third perfect placement of the night to close out the scoring.

In the fourth quarter Harry Renick, of Hannibal made the outstanding run of the night, taking one of the two Tiger punts, he snaked his way up the right side of the gridiron and traveled 65 yards, to the Bengals' 30-yard line before being hauled down from behind by two local tacklers.

Burton a Standout

Floyd Burton, junior backfield man and end, was without a doubt the workhorse of the Tiger team. It was his brilliant running through the middle of the line and skirting ends that kept the Tigers in Hannibal territory two-thirds of the time. He also caught a touchdown pass from Keenes to add to his night's work.

Officials for the game were Dick Braznell, Ruddy Eskridge, and Dave DeHardt, all of Missouri university.

Complaints On Loitering Children

Complaints have been registered at police headquarters by neighbors in the vicinity of Ninth street and Ohio and Osage avenues of children loitering around the National Guard Armory and in the neighborhood in general.

Children who are caught out after 10:00 o'clock at night playing "cops and robbers" and chasing through backyards will be picked up and taken to police headquarters. They will be detained there until their parents can be notified and call at police headquarters for them.

Football Roundup

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 — (AP) — Army's hard-hitting legions lived up to their No. 1 national ranking by crushing Michigan today, 27-6, but one major upset dented college football's top ten.

Purdue, the giant-killer which felled mighty Notre Dame last week, bowed to underdog university of Miami (Fla.), 20-14. A twisting half-back named Frank Smith got off two dazzling runs to smear the Boilermakers, No. 9 in the Associated Press poll.

Notre Dame's Irish, who tumbled to tenth after their loss, failed again to reach their former awesome heights and barely squeezed past Tulane at New Orleans, 13-9.

Outplayed in the line, the Irish managed to prevail on Bob Williams' short, sharp passing. A crowd of 76,000 saw the game.

Sooners Extend Streak

In the other big game of the day, Oklahoma extended its winning streak to 24 games by squeezing out a last-minute 14-13 victory over unbeaten and favored Texas.

This game, played as the first half of a day-night doubleheader in Dallas' Cotton Bowl, matched the third and fourth ranking teams in the country before 75,968.

Southern Methodist, No. 2, met Oklahoma A. and M. in the Dallas night game.

A crowd of 67,068 turned out at New York's Yankee stadium to see Army unfold its tremendous power.

Army Strikes Fast

Stunned at the start by a quick Michigan touchdown and held to 6-6 at halftime, the Black Knights unleashed three touchdowns in the space of five minutes in the last two quarers o make he game a rout.

Al Pollard, 190-pound sophomore sub fullback from Los Angeles, ripped the big Michigan line for decisive gains while Bob Blaik, the sharp-throwing coach's son, struck at the Wolverines through the air.

Blaik's passes set up one touchdown and accounted for another —a 37-yard scoring toss to Jack Martin. Pollard scored one touchdown and kicked three extra points while Vic Pollard tallied twice from the one-yard line. Bob Dufek scored for Michigan on a four-yard plunge.

A break late in the game preserved Oklahoma's long winning streak at Dallas. Billy Vessels scored for the Sooners in the game's dying seconds after a low pass from center caused the Texans to lose the ball on downs on their own 11-yard line.

Maryland Surges On

Maryland, developing into one of the giants of the south, continued its upward swing by smashing Georgetown, 25-14. Maryland is ranked eighth nationally.

Wisconsin, Ohio State and Northwestern won important conference victories in the Big Ten, which annually provides the guest team in the Rose Bowl.

Unbeaten Wisconsin subdued Iowa, 14-0; Ohio State won a wild scoring melee from Indiana, 26-14, and Northwestern scored its third straight triumph by beating winless Minnesota, 13-6.

Vanderbilt emerged as the "dark horse" of the Southeastern conference, turning back Mississippi, 20-14, for its fourth straight victory.

In other major games in the south, Duke turned back North Carolina State, 7-0; Wake Forest beat North Carolina, 13-7, and Georgia rolled over Mississippi State, 27-0.

In the east, Cornell and Penn, favorites for the Ivy League title, came through easily. Cornell's Big Red topped Harvard, 28-7, and Penn turned back Dartmouth, 42-26.

Navy Folds Late

Princeton found Navy unexpectedly tough before winning, 20-14, while Yale kept its season record clean by subduing Columbia, 20-14.

In intersectional conflicts, Michigan State triumphed over William and Mary, 33-14, while Rice smashed Pittsburgh, 14-7.

California and Stanford, the Pacific coast's pre-season favorites for the Rose Bowl, won over strong foes to remain unbeaten and untied.

California's Golden Bears had to rally in the last period and then throw back a drive to their one-yard line in the final seconds to beat Southern California, 13-7, at Los Angeles.

Bill McCall, a six-foot-four, 225-pound end, was the hero as Stanford repelled Santa Clara at Palo Alto, Calif., 23-13. He caught one touchdown pass and figured in setting up the other markers.

Stanford is sixth in the AP poll and California is seventh.

Washington won its fourth straight game, turning back Oregon State, 35-6. College of the Pacific beat Nevada, 43-7.

The gorge of the Snake River between Oregon and Idaho is America's deepest chasm.

Tiger "Bees" Tie Columbia, 13-13

The Smith-Cotton Tigers "B" team, made up of football players from the Sophomore and Freshman class, fought their way to a 13 to 13 tie with the Columbia Kewpie "B" team Saturday morning at Columbia.

Dick Buso and Junior Keenes scored the Bengals two touchdowns and Keenes shot an aireal to Bob Lane for the game tying extra point.

The local team, coached by Howard Glavin, were ahead at half time by a 6 to 0 margin.

Sooners Keep Streak Alive

O. U. Rallies Late To Plunge Past Texas, 14-13

DALLAS, Oct. 14 —(AP)— Oklahoma's slashing red shirts stormed on undefeated and untied with college football's greatest winning streak today with a breathless, last minute 14-13 victory over Texas.

A low pass from center which Bill Porter, back to kick in the lengthening shadows of the Cotton Bowl, could only fall on and give the ball to Oklahoma on the Texas 11-yard line, was the deciding point in the Sooners' magnificent victory that was their twenty-fourth straight over a period of a little more than two years.

Vessels Led Attack

Billy Vessels, key man in the lacerating ground game on the Oklahomans' dash around right end for a touchdown and Jim Weatherall, the Texan who plays tackle for the Sooners, kicked the extra point that threw a crowd of 75,968 into pandemonium.

Minutes before, slender Bobby Dillon, Texas' ace safety man, had skittered 50 yards with an intercepted pass to give Texas a 13-7 lead.

Only four minutes and five seconds remained to play when Oklahoma scored the wining touchdown.

Statistically, Oklahoma was the leader with 190 yards on the ground and 104 in the air. Texas gained 80 rushing and 116 passing.

Longhorns Flub Chances

Texas had 'em but they got away. Twice the Longhorns smashed within a bean-shooter's distance of the Oklahoma goal line. Once the powerful Sooners piled up the Longhorn drive on the one-foot line. Another time Texas lost the ball on the five with a fumble.

It was a rough, smashing game fought between the two giant, bone-crushing lines.

At game's end, mad Oklahomans swarmed onto the field and uprooted the goal posts. Wooden posts had been erected for the special benefit of Oklahoma, which is accustomed to tearing them down in its conference.

It was the forty-fifth game in this storied gridiron series and Oklahoma's third straight victory.

Texans Claim Jinx

Texas' supporters might continue their cry of "Snake-bit." The Longhorns have lost five games in two years by a grand total of 11 points. Oklahoma beat the Longhorns 20-14 last year and Texas dropped three other games by four points.

Purdue Glory Fades Before Miami, 20-14

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 14— (AP)—A twisting halfback, Frank Smith, scored twice after dazzling runs today to lead the University of Miami from Florida to a surprising defeat of Purdue, 20-14.

The Hurricanes from the south smeared the Purdue offense, which Notre Dame couldn't stop last week, and kept the Boilermakers in the midfield a good part of the afternoon.

Purdue was able to score only on a blocked punt and a 31-yard pass.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

THE Central Missouri State College Mules are in for another surprise on Friday night when they invade Missouri Valley territory. Their appearance before a homecoming crowd of nearly 5,000 at Warrensburg Friday night was anything but impressive. Rolla made them look rather shaggy when the Miners walked off the gridiron 32-13 victors.

Entering Friday night's game undefeated, apparently they were the same players on the field but not the same team. They just couldn't do anything impressive throughout the game against the boys in gold and black, consistently. They did make two or three impressive plays only to fold up like an accordion.

Missouri Valley appears to be headed out on another long stretch of victories, knocking off the Central College Eagles Friday night 40 to 6, after three tight quarters had been ployed. Coach Volney Ashford usually comes in with strong teams, noted for great victory streaks.

At Warrensburg, there is no reason they shouldn't have a good team, the material appeared on the gridiron, and certainly the five Sedalians who are playing there, should produce.

ACCORDING to the newspaper reports Missouri wasn't to impressive in their 28-7 victory over Kansas State. But they did win the game and maybe it might be the turning point in the Big Seven. But they have plenty to look forward to in meeting Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and even Iowa State.

FIVE Sedalians departed early Friday morning for the woods north of the Lake of the Woods in Canada—Big Game hunting say their friends. They were W. G. Whitaker, his son Jax Whitaker, L. E. "Buster" Brown, B. A. "Bunny" Fisher, and Frank Brosch. They were all prepared for the big game hunting according to their friends, having taken various precautions on where and how to shoot bear.

It seems the group was supposed to have taken a sojourn to Kansas City recently and while there they were supposed to have visited the zoo in Swope Park and looked over bear. They are alleged to have checked up on where to shoot a bear for keeps. I was informed by their friends the group had been given a lecture by some of the rocking chair hunters around Sedalia just how vicious a bear can be when only wounded. So they decided to find out how to kill and not just wound a bear.

They met A. B. Fletcher, a former Sedalian, now of Des Moines, Iowa, who with several friends in Iowa accompanied the group on into Canada for the hunt. They expect to be absent from the city from ten days to two weeks.

NEXT Friday night the game between the Smith-Cotton high school Tigers and the Hickman high school Kewpies of Columbia should be the deciding game of the CEMO conference. Smith-Cotton and Columbia are considered the contenders for the 1950 championship.

The Tigers set Hannibal back on their heels 21-0 Friday night while Columbia was busy trimming the Jays of Jefferson City 20-0. Hannibal sometime ago fell beneath the Jays losing 6-24, hence Sedalia and the Kewpies under those scores should be the top teams to watch for the title.

No doubt the Tigers will see a big following on the sidelines at Columbia next Friday night rooting for them to become the winner and return to the Show-Me Bowl later this year.

AP Wirephoto Comes To Rescue Of Stranded Football Patrons

DALLAS, Oct. 14—(AP)—A Tulsa Okla., couple will see two Cotton Bowl football games here today, although their tickets are still in Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Simons of Tulsa received pictures of their tickets from Tulsa in an eight-minute transmission by Associated Press wirephoto. Arrangement for the special transmission was made by the Tulsa World after the newspaper learned the couple drove away from Tulsa Friday —without their tickets.

Bowl Head O.K.s Tickets

In Dallas, the Associated Press contacted Arthur Hale, manager of the Cotton Bowl, who said he would honor the picture-tickets "since they are backed by good authority."

Hale gave the Tulsa couple a letter which admitted them to the University of Texas-University of Oklahoma football game shortly after it began. The game had been sold out for weeks.

Letter Admits Couple

Hale also gave Mr. and Mrs. Simons a letter which would admit them to the Southern Methodist university-Oklahoma A & M game tonight.

When Mr. and Mrs. Simons, in Dallas, discovered they had forgotten their tickets, they phoned a friend, Mrs. E. L. Leonard of Tulsa, and asked her to get the tickets from their home and air mail them to Dallas.

Mrs. Leonard discovered that no air mail delivery could reach Dallas before game time. In desperation, she called on the Tulsa World for aid.

The newspaper arranged with the Associated Press for a special transmission of the four ducats on its wirephoto network.

K. U. Outscores Cyclones; Grab Big Seven Lead

AMES, Ia., Oct. 14—(AP)—A running game triumphed over a passing game here today as a pair of hard-driving Kansas backs hammered through and over Iowa State for a 33-21 Jawhawk victory.

The victory, watched in a warm October sun bya perspiring record homecoming crowd of 19,500, gave Kansas the lead in the Big Seven conference race with two victories in as many starts.

Kansas, wasting little time uncovering its strong ground attack, powered 48 yards in ten plays for a touchdown the second time it got the ball. The Jayhawks struck again in the first period and made it 19-0 early in the second.

They added two more in the third period after Iowa State had scored twice in the second to make it 19-14 at halftime. State scored once more in the third.

It was a story of the hard-pumping legs of Kansas backs Hoag and Wade Stinson against the pitching arm of cyclone passer Bill Weeks.

Cards Release Miller

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today the unconditional release of shortstop Eddie Miller.

Miller came to the Redbirds from the Philadelphia Phils last spring. He filled in during the season for the ailing Marty Marion.

A Real Missouri U. Tiger Rooter

R. L. "Bob" Dudley II, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dudley, Columbia, Mo., is seen at the University of Missouri football games about every time the Tigers play in Columbia. All diked out for the M. U.-Clemson game on September 30, "Little Bob" just couldn't pull the Tigers over. His father is well known in Sedalia having been connected with the Sweet Hotels here several years ago and is now manager of the Tiger Hotel in Columbia. Although the Tigers lost to Clemson, "Little Bob" enjoyed his all-day sucker.

Savage And Moto Team For Matches

Meet The Schnabel Brothers; Girls To Be In Two Events

WRESTLING SCHEDULE

Main Event
(Team Match)
"The Great Moto" and Daniel Boone
Tokyo, Japan — Boyd Co., Ky.
to meet
Hans Schnabel and Fritz Schnabel
Brothers from San Francisco, Calif.
2 falls out of 3, 90-minute time limit.

Semi-Windup
Ann La Verne vs. Ellen Olson
Canton, Ohio — Camden, N. J.
2 falls out of 3 45-minute time limit.

Opening Event
Elvira Snodgrass vs. Mars Bennett
Columbus, Ohio — Detroit, Mich.
One fall with a 30-minute time limit.

Place: National Guard Armory.
Time: 8:15 p. m. Wednesday.
Referee: Walter Sirois.

Girl wrestlers are coming to the Sedalia mat ring Wednesday night, appearing in the opening and semi-windup events. It is the first appearance of the "weaker sex" in the wrestling ring this year. The card is topped with a team match for the main event which brings together "The Great" Moto of Tokyo, Japan and Daniel Boone Savage of Boyd county, Ky., clashing with the Schnabel brothers, Fritz and Hans, both of San Francisco, Calif.

Plenty of Action

There is no doubt, Wednesday will be a night of action, with the two girls' matches topped with th team match between four wrestlers who have provided some rough going in the local ring in the past month. The girls always provided the necessary hair-pulling thrills to keep the fans on the edge of their seats. The group coming this week are well noted for such action.

Ellen Olson

The team match will see Moto and Savage, two who had local fans in a rage last week, back this week working together as a team to battle the two Schnabel brothers. It will be recalled Fritz took a beating from the Kentucky "hillbilly" who provided a real mountaineer "bear hug" to squeeze him to the floor. The Moto who displayed his anger at Joe Pazandak, Minneapolis, only to lose the match because he wants a shot at one or both the Schnabels, and this he'll get.

Know Wrestling Art

Moto and Savage, both are characters of the wrestling sport, who not only know the art of wrestling but also the art of entertainment. Both can "take it" and both can "dish it out" as Promoter Pearl Christy said in discussing the coming team match.

The Schnabel brothers are not to be under-estimated. Both are well known, through to facts, one by being seen in the "flesh" in the ring, by thousands of fans and by being seen by many more thousands over television. They are anxious to tangle with Moto and Savage and anything can happen in this type of match.

Promoter Christy says there are new faces among the girl wrestlers who are coming—Ellen Olson and Mars Bennett. Both these young ladies have good records and their matches with Ann La Verne and Elvira Snodgrass should prove to be interesting matches.

Walter Sirois will be the third man in the ring.

Colorado Ends Nebraska Dream Of Grid Empire

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 14—(AP) — Colorado's sophomore-loaded team smashed Nebraska's dreams of football empire here today by whipping the unbeaten Cornhuskers, 28-19, in a Big Seven football tilt before a record crowd of 25,000.

Nebraska, a winner last week over mighty Minnesota, was rated at least a touchdown better than Colorado and its backers came here with high hopes for an undefeated season. But Colorado kept ahead all the way and the invaders' last hopes died late in the final period when Bill Mueller fumbled behind his goal line and tackle Dick Punches pounced on the ball for the winners' fourth touchdown.

Princeton Rallies To Overtake Navy

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 14— (AP) — Chunky Jack Davison and slender Dick Kazmaier rallied Princeton today to defeat Navy's downtrodden football team, 20 to 14, after the Midshipmen led at the half 14-7.

Princeton's victory, accomplished before 35,000 was the third of the year and avenged Navy's unexpected 1949 upset of Princeton 28-7. The defeat was Navy's third in a row.

Tigers Humble K-State 28-7

Missouri Fails To Impress Fans Against Weak Foe

By Skipper Patrick

MANHATTAN, Kas., Oct. 14— (AP)—Twice beaten Missouri opened its Big Seven football campaign with a decisive but unimpressive 28-7 victory over the Kansas State Wildcats today.

The Tigers of Missouri scored a touchdown in each quarter and were in control at all itmes but their ball handling was bad and their mistakes numerous. A crowd of 15,500 saw the game.

Klein Passes For First TD

Quarterback Phil Klein flipped a pass to Harold Carter that covered 36 yards for the first touchdown late in the opening period. The other touchdowns were by fullback Bob Deneke from six inches out on the first play of the second quarter; by Bob Spoeneman on a 12-yard pass from Klein in the third, and by Ed Stephens from the one-foot mark in the fourth.

John Glorioso converted from placement after each touchdown.

Kansas State's lone score came on a perfectly executed screen pass from Frank Hooper to Bob Mayer with half a minute remaining in the second quarter. The play covered 39-yards and followed a Missouri fumble.

Tigers Earn Scores

Each Missouri touchdown came on a sustained drive. With better ball handling the score likely would have been larger. The Tigers rolled up 434 yards net rushing and their defense held Kansas State to 106 yards.

Listless in their shutouts by Clemson and Southern Methodist, Missouri started today as though it was ready to claw the Wildcats to shreds. In five plays after the kickoff he Tigers had banged 62 yards of the K-State 8 where Glorioso fumbled and Missouri lost the ball.

The Missouri scores came on drives of 37, 83, 41 and 49 yards, respectively.

Bobbles Mar Game

The ball was lost a total of 8 times on fumbles, Missouri being charged with 5 and Kansas State 3. Other bobbles by both teams marred their play.

Scoring:
Missouri	7	7	7	7—28
K State	0	7	0	0— 7

Missouri scoring: Touchdowns, Carter, Deneke, Spoeneman, Stephens; points after touchdown Glorioso four.

Kansas State scoring: Touchdowns, Mayer; points after touchdown, Estes.

Justice Signs With Redskins

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)— North Carolina's fabulous all-America halfback, Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice, finally made up his mind today to play pro football with the Washington Redskins.

After four months of negotiations which apparently ended last week when Justice said he would "definitely not play pro football," Choo-Choo said today:

"The offer has been made so attractive that I didn't feel I could afford to turn it down."

Justice told Tribe president George Preston Marshall by telephone that he would be here Monday to sign the three-year contract which reportedly calls for more than $50,000.

CBC Builds For Another Hoop Title

New Stars Added To Playing Roster Of Powerful Locals

The CBC Basketeers, winners of the Sedalia Lions club tournament and Warsaw Lions club tournament are making plans for another basketball team this year with a caliber as high as last year. Last year's team had a record of 22 wins and five losses. One of these losses was in tournament play and the other four in regular competition.

McMillen Joins Team

Players already indicating their intentions to play with the CBC team this year are: Don McMillen, former star of the University of Missouri who has a professional baseball contract as pitcher with the New York Giants; Foster McGuire, who held a starting assignment on the Warrensburg Mules' B team last year; Bud Thomas, who was a consistent scorer last year and has a professional baseball contract with the Browns; Hilliard Willie, who is a starting guard on the Warrensburg Mules' football team; Billy Elwell, who was a star on the Warrensburg Mules' basketball team last year; Bob Tipton, who did very satisfactory service with the Business College team last year; and Artie Elwell, who was an all-conference MIAA guard at Warrensburg for two years, will be available for some of the games.

Other players with equal ability are anticipated to join the team, among those indicating interest are Stanley Inteeleman from Warsaw and Richard Keene from Ottawa, Kas.

Fans Recall Willie

It will be recalled that it was Hilliard Willie who was the scoring man who scored what was called the $50 shot in the Warsaw Lions tournament last season.

Plans are underway to bring to Sedalia several new attractions in the way of professional and novelty basketball teams. These games it is hoped will be played on the court at convention hall, Liberty park.

Coach Jack Alpert and manager Barney Ellis have called for the first practice session at Convention hall on Wednesday night, this week. Players who are interested are requested to be present for the workouts.

Louis To Try For Comeback With Charles

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — (AP) — Still convinced that he can beat heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, Joe Louis will hit the road for a series of bouts to get in shape for another crack at his conqueror.

Confirming the Associated Press' story of last night, James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, announced today the 36-year-old Brown Bomber will continue fighting to earn another chance.

Norris said negotiations are under way for a Louis-Cesar Brion ten rounder at the Chicago stadium, Nov. 29. The IBC chieftain is dickering with Hymie Wallman, manager of the 26-year-old Argentine contender.

If that match is made, and if Louis is successful, the ex-heavyweight titleholder will take on veteran Lee Oma in Detroit and Rocky Marciano, undefeated Brockton, Mass., slugger in New York's madison Square Garden.

Other possible opponents for Louis include Lee Savold, the British-recognized heavyweight king from Englewood, N. J., and Tommy Farr, the aging Welshman who also is making a comeback.

All this preparatory work is aimed at getting Joe another bout with Charles, who defeated Louis in Yankee stadium last Sept. 27.

Proclaim Oil Progress Week

Mayor Herb E. Studer has proclaimed Octoebr 15th to 21st, inclusive, as Sedalia Oil Progress Week.

The special week is being set aside, said the Mayor's proclamation, in order that oil men who live and work in this community may give a mid-century report to their neighbors on the many ways in which oil men and their progressive industry have served the public in the past and plan to do so in the future.

During the week designated, said the proclamation, citizens engaged either in producing, transporting, refining or marketing pretroleum products will cooperate to inform the public about the many ways in which oil men individually and through their industry have contributed "to our high standards of living and to the preservation of our democratic freedoms."

Mayor Herb Studer called the attention of all citizens to "the many contributions and services which oil men who live and work make to the steady advancement of public, social, business and private lives."

New Members Honored At Music Club

The Helen G. Steele Music Club honored its six new members at the annual opening luncheon on Wednesday noon. The luncheon tables, placed on both the main and second floors of Heard Memorial Clubhouse, were decorated with chrysanthemums and dahlias, and place cards hand-painted by Mrs. Nolan Bricken marked the places of the officers, board of directors, new members and their sponsors. A large bouquet of pink dahlias was placed on the table between the two grand pianos.

The new members, presented by their sponsors, are as follows: Mrs. Allen Telford, by Mrs. Arthur Bratton; Mrs. William Gibbs, by Mrs. Gilbert Jones; Mrs. Robert Stannard, by Mrs. Fred Handley; Miss Esther Meisenheimer, by Mrs. A. R. Beach; Mrs. John P. Riley, by Mrs. A. J. Harlan, and Miss Rose Marie Reed by Mrs. T .W. Croxton.

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life-president, presided and called upon Mrs. Edgar L. Knight, who pronounced the invocation.

Mrs. John Petty was introduced and presented her telephone committee, Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, Mrs. C. K. Parsons, Mrs. Ford L. Snyder and Mrs. W. F. Whitington, all of whom have long years of service to their credit on this committee.

The following guests were then presented: Mrs. Cecil Beach, of Washington, D. C., by Mrs. A. R. Beach; Mrs. A. B. Ridgway, formerly a librarian of Music Club for ten years, by Mrs. Yancey; Mrs. Warren McGrath of Kent, Ohio, by Mrs. C. W. Mathieson, and Mrs. Robert Lee Wood of Jacksonville, Fla., by Mrs. E. T. Thomson.

Mrs. Yancey announced that the yearbooks were ready and were being distributed by the Ways and Means Committee, headed by Mrs. L. C. Yunker. The cover of the book this year is a decorative antique white and silver, printed in raised crimson letters and tied with crimson cord. Miss Jessie Blair is chairman in charge of preparation of the year book.

Mrs. Yancey asked Mrs. Duane Ewing to announce the first symphony concert, which will be given on October 23rd, with William Watkins ,organist, as soloist. Mrs. Linden L. Jones is handling season tickets for Music Club.

Mrs. Yancey announced that all members of the club had been contacted by a committee composed of Mrs. Al Miles, Mrs. Miles H. Rhodes, Mrs .Fred Handley, Mrs .C. W. Mathieson and Mrs. Harold Yunker. The purpose of the canvas was to discover in what way each member preferred to serve the club, and brought to light much interesting and useful information.

Mrs .William Ward was requested to make an announcement regarding the activities of the Sedalia Community Playhouse, which was to give the second performance of "Blithe Spirit" that evening ,this play being the first of the dramatic club's season of four plays.

Mrs. Yancey called attention to the delicate fans painted on the place cards, and related the "Legend of the Fan," on which their use had been based by Mrs. Bricken. Mrs. Bricken is Scrap Book Chairman.

Mrs. Fred M. Ross announced the year's programs and program chairmen, which will be as follows:

October 25, "Indian Lore," an artist program presented The Schuylers October 25, "Indian Lore," an artist program presented The Schuylers of Marshall, Mo. Mrs. Z. Lyle Brown, chairman.

November 8, "Adventures in Music, a Concert on Film," compliments of the Fox Theatre. Mrs. H. C. Johnson and Mrs. Harry Brougher, chairmen. November 15, "Moonlight in the Ozarks," a supper and night program. Mrs. Edgar L. Knight and Mrs. George Miller, chairmen.

November 22, "Scenes of Childhood," Mrs. Charles Patterson, Mrs. C. C. DeLozier and Mrs. Henry C. Salveter, chairmen.

December 13, Christmas Program, Bach Anniversary. Mrs. Ernest Liebel and Mrs. Victor Scott ,chairmen.

January 10. University of Kansas City Trio, Mrs. William A. Schien, Chairman. January 24, "Adventure in Song," presented by the Chorus. Mrs. C. D. Demand and Mrs. A. H. Bratten, chairmen.

January 31. "A Treat in Light Music," Mrs. William B. Hurt and Mrs. Dick Monsees, chairmen.

February 14. Artist Program, a song cycle, "Persian Garden," directed by Mrs. Paul Barnett of Kansas City. Mrs. H. O. Foraker, chairman.

February 21, an evening program, "The Melody Lingers On," Mrs. Leonard T. Peabody and Mrs. George Lovercamp, chairman.

February 28, Concerted Piano Program, Mrs. Alan R. Tawse and Miss Mabel DeWitt, chairmen.

March 14, artist program, duo piano recital, by the Markwell, Twins, Ann and Sue, from the studio of Dr. Wiktor Labunski of Kansas City. Mrs. L. H. Hodges, chairman.

March 28, Federation Day. Mrs. A. B. Potts and Mrs. Dan Robinson, chairmen.

April 11th. Annual business meeting.

Mrs. Charles Maggard, chairman of Memorial Music, presented Mrs. Gilbert Jones, who gave a tribute to the memory of members who died during the last year. Led by Mrs. Arthur Bratton, the members sang softly "In the Garden," accompanied by Mrs. Paul Berthouex.

Music Club is beginning its sixteenth year of occupying the Heard Memorial Club House, Mrs. W. F. Keyser, chairman of the House Committee, stated, and is ever grateful to the generosity of Senator Heard and Mrs. Heard for the privilege.

Before presenting the new members, Mrs. Yancey announced tha the lovely lyre-backed music stand to be used b ythe violinist was one that had been owned by Helen G. Steele (Mrs. W. D. Steele), who had used it for many years and who had origiually been given the stand by the club.

Mrs. Percy Metcalf, chairman of the day, presented the new members in a program. "Sweet Song of Long Ago," by Ernest Charles, and "Gianina Mia," from "The Firefly," by Friml, were sung by a sextette composed of Mrs. Telford, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Stannard, Miss Meisenheimer, Mrs. Homer Keith and Mrs. Robert Seelen, accompanied by Miss Lillian Fox.

Miss Meisenheimer then sang, "A House of Hospitality," by McLaughlin, which she dedicated to Music Club, and "There Will Always Be a Spring," by Spross, accompanied by Mrs. Beach.

Miss Reed, violinist, also accompanied by Mrs. Beach, played two numbers, "Meditation," from "Thais," by Massanet, and "Ye Who Have Yearned Alone," by Tschaikovsky.

Her sponsor, Mrs. Handley, accompanied Mrs. Stannard, who sang "The Summer Wind," by Bishop, and "Kiss Me Again," by Victor Herbert.

The program was closed with the playing of the Sonata in C Major by Mozart, by Mrs. Alan W. Tawse ,who became a member of the club last season. She was accompanied on the second piano by Miss Mabel DeWitt.

The chorus of the Helen G. Steele Music Club will hold its first rehearsal on Wednesday afaernoon at two o'clock, Mrs. Bratten, chorus chairman, announced.

OES Officer

Mrs. Frank Coffman, Sr., 1411 South Ohio, was installed as Grand Esther of the Grand Chapter of Missouri, Order of the Eastern Star, at the close of the 76th session on Wednesday, October 11th, in Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis.

Fox Will Show Series Games

At the Fox Theatre starting today and through Monday will be Movietone News shows of the recent World Series between the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies.

Action highlights of the first two games of the 1950 baseball classic between the two major league pennant winners will be shown.

The first, at Shibe Park is the scene of the first two games. The opener is pitcher's duel between Vic Raschi and Jim Konstanty, and is taken by the Yanks as Bobby Brown hits a double and comes home after long flys by Frank Bauer and Jerry Coleman—the final score: 1-0. In the second game Allie Reynolds and Robin Roberts take the mound—Yanks tally in the second inning when Gene Woodling's single scores Coleman—but the National League's Whiz Kids tie it up in the fifth. Mike Goliat singles, advances to third on Eddie Waitkus' freak single, then scores on Richie Ashburn's fly.

The spectacular climax comes in the tenth inning when Joe DiMaggio hits a home run and wins the second game for the Yankees, 2-1. The next stop is New York, with more baseball thrills to come!

Rolla Blasts Mules, 32-13

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Oct. 13—(AP)—Rolla shattered Warrensburg's homecoming celebration here tonight with a 32-13 grid win over the home squad.

The game was highlighted with a 95-yard scoring dash by Alden Williams, Rolla quarterback, in the third period. Williams took a Warrensburg punt and returned it for the counter.

Warrensburg virtually handed Rolla six points in the first period when they fumbled on their own three-yard stripe and Rolla recovered. Howard Bullman scored from the three.

Warrensburg scoring was registered in the last two quarters. Kenny Webster made a 20-yard run in the third, and an eight-yard pass from Kelley Meyer to Earl Thomson counted for the second touchdown in the fourth quarter.

In a halftime ceremony, Miss Patsy Scott, Warrensburg junior, of Kansas City, was crowned queen.

Miss Patsy Scott, Homecoming Queen for the Central Missouri State College, is a former Sedalian. Miss Scott a senior at the college is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Scott, former Sedalians who left Sedalia in 1940 to go to Kansas City where they have since resided.

Miss Scott is a member of the Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority, at Warrensburg.

Bonds Forfeited In Speeding Cases

Lon A. Fleerese, Kansas City, Mo., arrested by the police October 8 for careless driving near Twelfth street and Marshall avenue, failed to appear in police court Saturday morning and his $25.00 cash bond was ordered forfeited.

Fleerese was driving his car at a fast rate of speed, according to the officers who made the arrest.

Bill Wooster, 1219 South Osage avenue, arrested by the police for speeding, failed to appear in court and his $10 cash bond was ordered forfeited by Judge Jerry Trotter.

Eleven overtime parkers failed to appear in court and their cash bonds of one-dollar each were ordered forfeited.

Calgary Confused

CALGARY — (AP) — Calgarians have always taken for granted that the name of their city comes from a Gaelic word meaning "clear, running water." But now it appears that might not be so.

The late Col. James MacLeod, early Mounted Police officer, named Fort Calgary after his Scottish home in the Isle of Mull. His son, Norman MacLeod, recently visited Scotland and looked into the derivation of the name of Calgary.

His findings? The word Calgary might mean anything from "hard water," "a bristle," "a shelter," to a proper name.

Woman Gets Farmer Award

MACON, Ga. —(AP)— Mrs. E. H. Joiner, who managed three children and a 275-acre farm successfully, is middle Georgia's farmer of the month. For two years, the Macon Telegraph and News has been honoring a farmer each month. This is the first time a woman has been selected.

Mrs. Joiner is the wife of the county school superintendent in Taylor county. Her husband says the farm "is strictly my wife's affair." He stays too busy with his work to even offer advice.

Mrs. Joiner's farm experience started in 1932, when she bought the farm for $6,500, paying $1,500 down. At that time, she had a child less than a year old.

"The land was run down," she said. "There were no farm buildings except the barn and one small house and the fences had all fallen down."

She started with 175 acres and bought another 100 in 1940. The small house has been rebuilt and enlarged and she has fenced the land and built storage barns and sheds.

"I don't owe a cent of money, now," she said.

The first European to visit the present site of Kansas City is believed to have been Etienne de Bourgmont, in 1712.

In 1827, the American invention of pressing glass—pouring molten glass into a mold, then using a plunger to press it into all parts of the mold—contributed one of the few technical changes in its production since glass blowing was first attempted in the pre-Christian era.

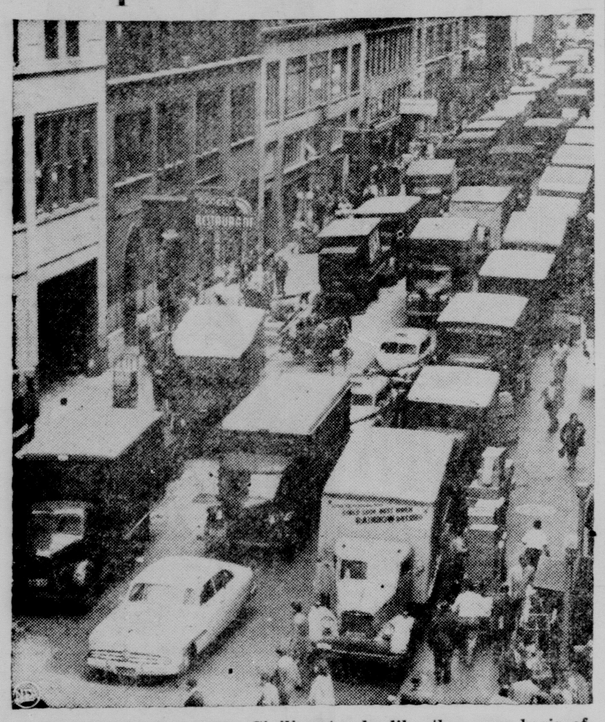
Civil Defense Plan Enlists Civilian Trucks for Emergency Transport in Time of Disaster



POOL FOR DISASTER: Civilian trucks like these are basis of a blueprint for solving transport shortage for emergencies.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEWARK, N. J. —(NEA)— Mayor Ralph Villani of Newark has come up with what is being praised as one of the newest and most practical civilian defense ideas which federal officials have been offered in recent months.

It is a blueprint for making all civilian trucks available for emergency transportation in time of disaster.

The idea was born last May 19 in the wake of the disastrous ammunition explosion at South Amboy, N.J. A Newark brewery formed a convoy of 200 of its trucks and an ambulance and placed it at the disposal of state police and rescue workers.

This emergency transportation aided tremendously in getting medical supplies and other emergency equipment to the scene and in helping carry wounded to hospitals.

* * *

It was such a successful gesture that the Newark firm—P. Ballantine and Sons—has formed two mobile disaster relief units on a permanent basis. One is at the disposal of state civil defense authorities in New Jersey. The second is being created for the District of Columbia.

This set-up, which Mayor Ralph Villani is pushing through the National Conference of Mayors, is being suggested for every city in the U. S. for war and peacetime emergencies.

Disaster relief experience has established that a shortage of transportation often hampers organizations doing the relief work. It isn't practical for any community or state agency to maintain sufficient trucks, cars and ambulances to cope with the most extensive devastation that can be conceived.

Carl W. Badenhause, president of Ballantine and author of the idea, emphasizes that the units are designed only to supplement existing facilities of police and other official relief agencies.

* * *

The Newark unit, which is being cited as the example to follow, is divided into three groups of vehicles. The first group is known as the "spot convoy" and is ready to move from the plant 10 minutes after a call by disaster relief authorities.

It consists of 10 trucks, three supervisor's coupes, and one ambulance. It is manned by 11 drivers and three supervisors, employes who have received training in basic disaster relief duties.

Disaster inspired a defense idea. MAYOR RALPH VILLANI:

The trucks in the spot convoy have equipment cases containing blankets, stretchers, pick axes, first aid kits, and fuses or flares.

The second group of the unit consists of 40 vehicles of various kinds. The third group, for use in major disasters involving mass evacuation of the civilian population, would put a minimum of 100 trucks on the road.

* * *

These would include trucks suitable for conversion into field ambulances or emergency field hospitals, to work in cooperation with other civilian or military relief units.

The immediate availability of this industrial transportation is assured by a carefully planned system of communication from authorized civil defense authorities to the plant transportation dispatcher and to plant executives with authority to order the convoy into action. The system, all outlined in the blueprint offered to the mayors, puts full control of the vehicles in hands of the relief officials.

The Newark plan is elaborate because of the large number of trucks used by the brewing company. Backers point out that a large number of vehicles is not necessary in order for an industrial organization to participate. Pools of individually owned trucks for emergency use could be formed.

Prudential Company Has A Birthday

Some 80 members and guests of the Sedalia district agency of the Prudential Insurance Company of America participated today in one of the largest birthday parties on record.

The local group joined with some 75,000 men and women in the United States, Canada and Hawaii in observing the 75th anniversary of the company. Hugo M. Sparn is district manager.

Representatives

The Sedalia area Prudential men, accompanied by their wives, included Staff Manager E. V. Walker, W. A. Schmidle, L. E. Ray, W. L. Reed, C. R. Craig, E. E. Shirley, M. H. Rodgers, Warrensburg; W. C. Rouse, Clinton, and Mr. Sparn. Others attending were from Jefferson City, Eldon, Moberly, Mexico, Columbia, Fayette, Boonville, Marshall, Carrollton, Lexington, Higginsville, Richmond and Slater.

Mr. Sparn pointed out that the Sedalia district has been on the Company's honor roll for the past 13 consecutive years, and he praised the agency members for their outstanding work.

Special Broadcast

The nationwide celebration was highlighted by a special broadcast Friday morning from the Prudential's home office in Newark, N. J., where 11,000 home office employes participated in the event.

Extending birthday greetings to the far-flung Prudential "family," Carrol M. Shanks, Prudential president, traced the growth of the firm into one of the world's greatest enterprises, serving more than 26 million policyholders and having assets of 8½ billion dollars.

Mr. Shanks introduced other high officials who broadcast birthday greetings. This is the first time the entire Presidential organization has joined in a simultaneous celebration.

During his summer vacation Jack Allgaier, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Allgaier, Hotel Terry, obtained information and wrote a series of articles about principal towns in the Central Missouri area surrounding Sedalia. Most of the material he gathered from old timers or historical reference books wherever available. These stories are illustrated by airplane views of the communities.

Delving into the past invites some inaccuracies but Jack has done a good job. He invites co-operation when he gets around during subsequent vacations to cover the towns he was unable to visit this summer.

From Oregon comes a letter commenting on the Warsaw article. It is written by W. T. Meyers, 8056 S.E. Clay St., Portland:

"Some friends of mine have mailed me a portion of your paper, containing a historical sketch of my old home town, Warsaw, Mo.

"My birth place was Marshall, Saline county, the family moving to Warsaw, about 1879, where I grew on catfish, drum and squirrels—with an occasional rabbit caught in a snare out in the white oak timber surrounding the metropolis of the Osage.

"I learned the printer's trade in the office of the Warsaw Times, and later was editor and publisher of that paper for a period of eight years during which time I also filled the office of postmaster. In the capacity of editor of the Times I came in contact with many Sedalians—among them, Holmes Hall, W. D. O'Bannon, J. J. Cundiff, E. E. Codding, Henry Lamm, P. H. Sangree, John W. Baldwin, P. D. Hastain, Dr. S. K. Crawford, A. S. McGowan, Peter Pehl, J. W. McClain and many others who have long since answered the call to a higher, yet unknown future.

"In your article, you state Thomas Benton White came to Warsaw in the early 1850's. This statement I am compelled to question because of a history compiled by Judge James H. Lay by authority of a resolution passed by Congress in 1876 and signed by U. S. Grant, as president, and Hamilton Fish, as secretary of state, asking each state to delegate one in each county to prepare a history of their respective counties.

"In this history of Benton county, Judge Lay gives a chronological survey of the newspapers published within the county of Benton, as follows:

"The Osage Banner, established, August, 1840, E. Cameron, editor; Osage Valley Democrat, established, 1842, Bevin & Co. publishers; Osage Yoeman, established by W. T. Yoeman, 1843; Saturday Morning Visitor, established 1845, Cameron & Richie, publishers; Democratic Review; Murry & Leach, publishers, bought the Visitor in 1848 and renamed it the Warsaw Weekly Whig, and later changed it to the Southwest Democrat, with Mark L. Means, as editor.

"Smith & Reed, in 1865, started the Warsaw Times, as a Republican paper and it had never missed an issue up to the time I sold my interests in 1914. In 1866 Soyster & Edmondson started the Benton County Index, (Democratic) and it suspended in 1869. In 1870 F. D. Harkrider established the Benton County Democrat and in 1872 sold it to Ben. R. Lingle, who in 1874 sold the paper to Woodberry Bros. They sold it in 1875 to a local company, with the well-known attorney, James R. Jones, as editor.

"There is no mention of Thos. B. White up to 1875, and while I was a very small boy at that time, I am quite sure Thomas Benton White did not enter the newspaper field at Warsaw until some time in the early '80's.

"Early life at Warsaw was quite eventful and much could be written of events and its people that would make good reading to the younger generation who reside at Warsaw or in the surrounding country.

"Should you be interested in the further pursuit of the early history of Southwest Missouri, you can find a copy of the Judge James H. Lay history on file with the state librarian at Jefferson City.

"I want to thank you for your short review of Warsaw and its people, and to the parties who forwarded it to me; with always a kind thought for Missouri and its people, I am,

Sincerely,
"W. T. Myers."

Truman Has Wanted To Visit MacArthur Since July

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—Inside fact about the President's visit to MacArthur is that as early as last July he had a hankering to go to Korea. At that time, the secret service went into a tantrum even at the thought of such a trip and is still worried at the idea of the President's meeting MacArthur in mid-Pacific.

The plan of a trip to the Pacific was revived approximately a week ago in talks between Truman and Averell Harriman, who had already been to see MacArthur to smooth out the Formosa embroglio. Harriman advised the President that it would be an excellent idea for him to talk to MacArthur personally, and the President finally made his decision a week ago last Friday.

The decision was kept so secret, however, that at the Monday morning briefing which defense chiefs give the President every day, no word of the trip was mentioned. Only at the end of the meeting did the President ask the staff to leave and General Bradley to remain behind.

"General," Truman said, "I've been contemplating this trip for a few days. Do you see any reason why I shouldn't make it?"

"No, I would be one of the first to urge you to talk to MacArthur," Bradley replied.

Bradley went back to the Pentagon and suggested to his chief, Secretary of Defense Marshall, that he accompany the President on the Pacific trip. But Marshall said he was too new in his present job and not entirely familiar with the problems of the Pacific; therefore, that Bradley had better accompany the President.

The argument put forward by Harriman to Truman regarding the visit was that MacArthur had some excellent ideas on the rehabilitation and administration of Korea. This will be the main topic discussed by the two men.

Differ on Occupying Korea

There has been a difference of opinion between the State and Defense departments over the future occupation of Korea, once the war is over. The national Defense department wants to occupy the entire country with United Nations troops, thus permitting American troops to leave for use elsewhere. The State department agrees that U.N. troops should be used to a considerable extent, but maintains that a certain number of American troops should remain in Korea. The State department is anxious that the rehabilitation job be done with great care and thoroughness and believes that U.S. personnel must be largely responsible.

The State department points out that one of the greatest losses of the Korean war has been the psychological effect upon Europe which has watched the bombing of helpless Korean cities. This has brought back in the minds of Western Europeans the realization that in case of war between the United States and Russia they too would be the object of intensive bombardment. Therefore, the State department proposes to make an example of Korea and to show the world that if it is necessary to bomb a nation, we also will undertake to rehabilitate and rebuild it.

Harriman told Truman that Marshall has some good ideas on this whole question of a U.N. protectorate.

In talking to close friends, the President has said that he also wants to make it quite clear in MacArthur's mind as to who is the boss regarding Far Eastern policy. MacArthur not only let loose with his statement about Formosa, which brought a virtual reprimand from the White House, but MacArthur was also on intimate terms with Secretary of Defense Johnson, who vigorously disagreed with Truman regarding Formosa.

The President has confided to friends that he wants to make sure MacArthur realizes that over-all policy is being made at the White House, not in the Defense department or in Tokyo.

Would Achieve Peace

Truman has also told friends that his greatest ambition is to establish peace in Korea; that we cannot afford to lose the peace as we have in the past; and that he believes a trip in which he can collect firsthand information from MacArthur will help to achieve this goal.

The President confided to one friend that he was sorry he had let his associates talk him out of having Chief Justice Fred Vinson go to Moscow in the fall of 1948 on a peace mission. He said he wasn't going to be talked out of this kind of thing again—hence his trip to see MacArthur.

Louey Johnson's Chin

Those who have watched ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson at the American Legion convention and elsewhere testify to the fact that Louey has taken his firing from the cabinet in his stride.

You have to know Louey Johnson to appreciate how terrific a blow his exit was. Louey had looked forward to being secretary of defense for 10 years—planned, hoped, yearned for the job. Then—after holding it for a year—he was bounced!

For a lot of strong men this would have been too much. But Louey has mingled genially among the crowds at the Legion convention in Los Angeles just as in the old days elsewhere. Meeting Pvt. Peter Emeterio in the Hotel Biltmore lobby he stopped to chat with the Marine Corps vet wounded at Taejon, told him how he had hated to give the order to send the Marines into battle, how the decision not to defend Korea had to be reversed overnight, what a great job the Marines had done. Then he strode on.

The press has given Johnson a far tougher bath of criticism than was given his predecessor, but Louey is keeping his chin up just the same.

Notes From the Crime Front

The Kefauver committee is looking for the private diary of William Drury, the Chicago ex-cop, shot just before he was to have given evidence to the Senate crime probers. Senators think the diary may give a clue to Drury's murder. . . . A few days before Drury was shot, Senators received a tip that Harry Russell, the Chicago-Miami gambler, was to be rubbed out. Instead, it was Drury, but there is an interesting link between the two. Drury had been in touch with Russell trying to get him to turn state's evidence. Russell told him that if he did so he would certainly be Binaggioed. . . . It was Drury who later got the Binaggio treatment. . . . Before Jack Dragna, the Al Capone of California, testified before the Kefauver committee, the Los Angeles police gave Senate probers a transcript of a conversation between Dragna and Allan Smiley, who was with Bugsy Siegel when the latter was murdered. The conversation went something like this: "I am going to Chicago and get back that $500 a week from the Illinois Sports News or somebody is going to get hurt." . . . When queried by Senate probers, Dragna kept a straight face, denied the whole thing. (The Illinois Sports News is the race wire that gives results to bookies, and pays heavy protection money to racketeers.) . . . Paul "The Waiter" Ricca, a top Chicago hood, admitted behind closed doors that he purchased a farm truck from his good friend, Charles Baran, the same man who controls the servicing of automobiles for the Chicago police.

VICTORIOUS VITALITY MASTERING CIRCUMSTANCES

Victorious vitality is a vitality capable of mastering everything because it can use everything. It can lay hold on the raw materials of human living—justice and injustice, pleasure and pain, compliment and criticism—and take them up into the purposes of our lives and transmute them into character and usefulness.

Just across the hall from where I was staying a poor fellow, beaten by life, went into a clothes closet and hung himself on a clothes bar which was only five feet from the floor, so that he had to hold up his feet until life was extinct. In deep contrast to this man, is a woman in another town whom I went that day to see. She has been 44 years upon her bed, but is unbeaten by life. On the contrary, she has mastered life. She had three diseases, anyone of which would have killed a normal person; but she is the unkillable kind. She laughingly said, "These different disease germs fell to fighting each other down on the inside of me; and as they fought, they forgot about me, and I lived on."

Lying prone upon her back, she set up a gift shop, and began to make exquisite butterfly pendants. She was soon making enough money to pay an income tax. She laughingly said, "I sent off my check to the government with my love." When you can pay your income tax with your love—well, that's a miracle! A magazine gave her $100 for the story of her gift shop and then gave her $1000 for the best true story of the year. A publisher, seeking the autobiographies of great Americans, happened on her life story; and at his request she has now written 100,000 words of her autobiography. Her room is the confessional of the city—the bedpost upon which I leaned was literally worn down with people leaning on it and telling this invalid their troubles. Young and old go away new after opening their hearts to her gentle wisdom and sympathy. She is 72, but incorrigibly gay, her face made beautiful by the beautiful spirit that lives behind it.

O Christ of the exuberant joy, give me this joy—in spite of. Save me from all self-pity, all feeling sorry for myself, and let me be outgoing and positive, taking on myself the problems of others. Don't let any corroding sorrow invade me. Help me to keep my sorrows in use as the servants of the sorrows of others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Research is Not Complete on Useful ACTH and Cortisone

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

It is not surprising that people generally are quite confused about cortisone and ACTH since the medical profession itself has a hard time keeping up with the developments made on these two substances. It must be realized that hundreds of research workers are investigating the properties and actions of these two exciting preparations, and although many facts have been uncovered about them, there is still a great deal which no one knows as yet.

There are two tiny glands of internal secreation lying next to the two kidneys which are called the adrenal glands. These glands manufacture a number of chemical substances or hormones which exert an enormous effect on the various functions of the body. One of these hormones, which has been obtained in pure form, has been named cortisone.

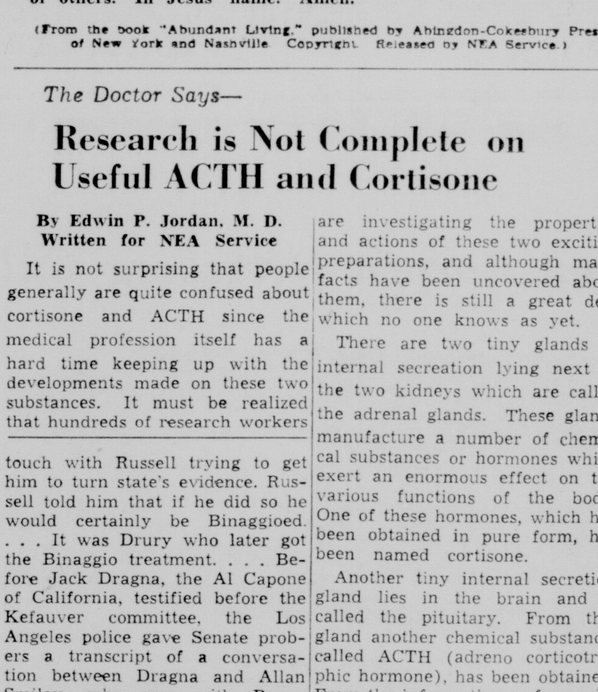
Another tiny internal secretion gland lies in the brain and is called the pituitary. From this gland another chemical substance, called ACTH (adreno corticotrophic hormone), has been obtained. From the information so far available it appears that ACTH stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more cortisone. For this reason the action of both substances in the human body is somewhat similar, though there are differences.

Both cortisone and ACTH when given to human beings exert profound effects on various functions and influence several diseases favorably or unfavorably. Both of them cause a dramatic improvement in rheumatoid arthritis, although the results have so far not proved lasting in most cases. Both cause the rapid disappearance of most of the symptoms of acute rheumatic fever, though their final effect in protecting the heart from the damaging effects of this disease will take a long time to determine. Cortisone and ACTH appear to be useful in a number of other diseases, such as lupus erythematosus, certain inflammatory diseases of the eye, and a number of other common and uncommon disorders of human beings.

Undesirable Results Also

These are strong substances and like other powerful chemicals, they produce undesirable effects as well as those which are sought. It is already known for example that they may be harmful in the presence of such conditions as high blood pressure, diabetes, certain forms of heart disease, and chronic inflammation of the kidneys.

As stated previously, hundreds of research projects, both in the laboratory and with patients, are now going on. ACTH and cortisone undoubtedly will prove useful in the treatment of many diseases, and valuable in the investigation of other conditions (such as leukemia) in which it seems at present doubtful that they will prove of curative value. It will take a long time, however, to gather all the facts.



SOMEBODY'S BRAGGING—Dems' donkey and GOP elephant line up at the strength barometer to see how many seats in the House of Representatives they can collect in the November elections. Optimistic Republicans, who hold 170 (see marker) of the 435 House seats, claim they have a good chance of getting 70 more for a total of 240. The GOP needs 218 for a slim one-vote majority. Democrats hope to bang the indicator up to their 1948 mark (259) and possibly collect 20 more for a comfortable 279 total. Number of seats now held by both major parties do not total 435 because of five vacancies and one seat held by the American Labor Party.

EDE'S mind flashed back. A darkened deck; a faint, almost imperceptible scent of perfume. She smiled.

"I see. Mrs. Winwood stumbled upon what must have looked to her like a movie fade-out. And, being the kind she is, she'd have to make a remark about it."

"It—it doesn't matter," Gil said quickly.

"You're absolutely right, Gil. It doesn't matter—now. Tell me, what do you think Northcott will do next? Take his account away from us, I suppose?"

"No," said Gil, unexpectedly. "I don't think so. Since we're on the subject, I went to see him the other day and we patched up our quarrel. I got him to agree to do nothing about your account for at least six months. By that time, he'll come to his senses. Right now he's in love with his little scheme. But I'm betting that he eventually decides it's too risky."

"Gil, you're a lamb. But," she added thoughtfully, "I don't know that I ever want to do business with Northcott again."

"Why not just relax on the whole thing?" Gil suggested. "Northcott won't make any move right away and you can hash it over later, when everybody's cooled down. Anyhow, before six months is up you'll have—other interests."

"Just what do you mean by that?"

He tapped the cold ashes from his pipe. "Oh, nothing special. Only the big Irishman won't wait forever, will he?"

Ede was silent a moment. At length: "You believe that the—the movie fade-out Mrs. Winwood saw meant all she thought it meant, don't you, Gil?"

"Well, I don't know. But after all, he's a pretty attractive guy and you were both in that business together and I'm a great believer in propinquity and . . ."

"Gil, would you mind standing up for a minute?"

"Eh? Why?"

"Because," said Ede, and there was a queer tawny light in her eyes, "I'm going to do something I ought to have done a long time ago. But darn if I'm going down on my knees to do it."

Wonderingly, Gil got up. So did Ede. Suddenly she took his face between her hands and kissed him, full on the lips.

"There!" she said. "Does that tell you anything?"

"I . . . Ede, you don't mean that—that you . . ."

"I do mean just that, Gil Summerfield. I should have married you years ago, only I didn't have sense enough to. As for Dan Reagan, he's a grand guy. But I'm not in love with him and he isn't with me, either. Oh, he thinks he is, of course. But, actually, he's in love with just one thing, getting along in life. He—he doesn't need me."

Gil Summerfield, his arm around her, drew a long breath.

"I'm very glad of that," he said, in a low voice. "Because I do."

• • •

LATER, a very long time later, Ede said, lifting her head from Gil's shoulder, "By the way, isn't Hamilton Grieve here?"

Gil laughed. "No. I threw poor old Hamilton out. Couldn't have him around in the state I was in. He went back on yesterday's boat. I hope, though, that your young sister's gotten over him."

"If what she told me a few days ago is true," Ede said, "she has. It seems she and that nice Tommy Melbourne have things all settled. In fact, Gil"—Ede shivered slightly—"everything's working out so well that I—I'm scared. Reagan will do a grand job of running the agency, and keep Jeff and Myron in line. Of course, I'll have to go up once in a while, just to let them know I'm alive. But, outside of that, I'm perfectly willing to leave business to the career women and be a nice comfortable play person—in Bermuda."

• • •

BUT his face was serious. "We could. But if you want diamonds and champagne and big parties and—and such like, you'll have to get 'em from that agency of yours. Because Summerfield's income isn't what it used to be."

"Gil!" Ede sat up. "You're trying to tell me you've lost money? Not," she added hastily, "that I care."

"Take it easy," said Gil. "I haven't lost anything. But you know how I've been feeling. About being useless. Fooling around and contributing nothing. That's the reason I listened to Northcott's proposition in the first place. I wanted to raise all the money I could."

"That had me baffled," Ede admitted. "I couldn't think why money had become important all of a sudden—to you."

"Well, it has. But when Northcott finally made himself clear, I had to scrap that way of trying to be of some use. But I think, now, that I've done the best thing I could do. I'm simply turning over most of my income to help out with—er—war rehabilitation. I mean, for guys who came out of that damned mess a lot worse than I did. With a heck of a lot more than just game legs. I'm pretty late, of course. But I guess anything will be welcome, late or no. The rehabilitating centers are going to need money for years. I didn't go completely nuts, though. We'll have this house and $150 per. Well, how about it?" The little smile, neither tired nor cynical now, was in his dark eyes. "Could you rub along on that, Mrs. Summerfield?"

Ede's lips—red, parted—were dangerously close.

"Could I, Mr. S? My gosh! If you'd even said a couple of bright thin dimes, I . . . Oh, Gil! Kiss me, idiot!"

A lick of sultry wind, slipping over the garden's white wall, brought the scent of frangipanni. Oblivious of it, the idiot kissed her.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's another of a question-and-answer series that tells how the Korean war affects reservists, veterans, draft-age men, and anyone likely to be called to service. The author, a member of the Washington staff of NEA Service, conducted a widely-read column on "Your GI Rights" in the months following World War II. He will answer questions only in this space, not by mail.)

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Q. I was a private in the last war and served for three years. After getting out I got my degree from med school with GI training. Does being a veteran keep me out of the doctor draft?

A. No.

Q. My husband served for three years in the Army during World War II. He received many decorations and saw a lot of combat. He really didn't know what he was doing when he signed up for the reserves. And he wasn't married then. Is it fair for them to take him? How can I live on the small allotment I will get?

A. Taking your husband into the service under these conditions is not any more fair than the Communist invasion of South Korea. During World War II a lot of wives got jobs to supplement their small allotments.

Q. My son is in college and is 19 years old. Should he ask for a deferment before he gets his call from the draft board?

A. When a man registers for the draft he should state all the facts of his case bearing on a possible deferment. If he waits for his induction notice it'll be too late.

Q. Will they take me into the service with blood pressure of 160? I have always been very nervous and timid.

A. It is not possible to predict what decision a doctor will make on a man's physical condition. Too bad about your being nervous and timid. The Army might fix that for you.

Q. I am in the inactive Naval reserve. And I have just passed the draft board's physical exam. Can I get into the Navy on active duty? If not can I get a commission in the Army? I am a graduate mechanical engineer.

A. You can ask for a deferment on the basis of being in the Naval reserve, or request active duty with the Navy. You can also enlist in the Army for the specific purpose of attending Officer's Candidate School.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE TOPS SCREEN BILL

George Montgomery and Marie Windsor are principals in "Dakota Lil" color adventure film which opens today at the Liberty. They share star billing with he-man Rod Cameron. The co-feature on the first-run bill is "Shadow on the Wall" adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Death in The Doll's House" and starring Ann Sothern and Zachary Scott.

Hollywood No Worse Now Than It Was 25 Years Ago

By Jack Quigg

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—(AP)—Hollywood thinks it has been taking an awful beating lately.

The once proud and lusty capital of filmdom has been the target of so many critical broadsides, from within the industry as well as without, it is developing a persecution complex.

A Senator has denounced its morals. Censors mangle its pictures. Movies are attacked as too commercial—or too arty. Customers shun theaters in such droves money is being spent to advertise "movies are better than ever." Instead of girlies, gossip is about high production costs, declining foreign markets and that young devil television.

Wondering if the picture really is as black as it is painted, I leafed through some film publications of a quarter century ago. Hollywood, I decided, is no worse off now than it was way back then.

Take this excerpt from a 1922 editorial:

"Because two prominent figures in motion pictures have recently been the center of a scandal, the entire profession is put under a cloud."

This was no Bergman-Rossellini affair, but it rocked the film colony as hard. Ace Director William Desmond Taylor had been found dead, a bullet in his back. The furor was over endearing letters he had left behind to actress Mary Miles Minter. The case was never solved.

The incident prompted Samuel Goldwyn to write a clause in contracts providing for discharge of actors whose private life reflected discredit on the industry.

Hays Is Appointed

About then Will Hays, appointed by the industry to censor its product, took office. Newspapers urged him to do a thorough housecleaning and predicted it would be a "Herculean task."

Headlines were reminiscent: Should New York or Hollywood be the production center? Then it was movies. Now it's television.

The moguls were divided. Goldwyn cried "the advantages of the east are negligible" and built the "biggest and best studio in the world" in Culver City.

A producer Jesse Lasky demonstrated equal faith—in New York. He erected a lavish studio on Long Island.

Times were tough a quarter century ago, too. But instead of shouting "movies are better," producers urged fans to take matters into their own hands. "If you don't get what you want," wrote one, "shout for it. Producers strive to please. Tell your exhibitor."

They didn't feature popcorn then. But as an added attraction some theaters stationed a man in the pit. One eye on the screen and the other on an array of instruments, he'd crank a wind machine during the storm, blow a "baby cry horn" when junior yowled and tear a sheet when the bulldog caught the comic half way over the fence.

The general run of Hollywood news hasn't changed much, either. Only the names are different. There were great romances: Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks, Rex Ingram and Alice Terry, Bill Hart and Winifred Westover. There were a lot of divorces, too. But the town was even then pointing with pride to long-wed couples, like the Harry Careys and the Tom Mixes.

Titles in the fan magazines were much the same as today's.

Mae Murray told how she rose from chorus girl to screen siren. Gloria Swanson gave a "formula for happiness"; find a man who can dominate you. Marion Davies was credited with a piece titled: "How I Keep in Condition."

Rudolf Valentino, writing on "Woman and Love," disclosed that "I would not dare to kiss a woman whose lips are mine at our second or third meeting."

Suspensions made news then, too.

If the star was Valentino, it was front page. He tried and failed to break his contract and was idle for months. The protests piled up until "the great lover" had to write an "open letter" to multitudes explaining he just couldn't shine for $1,250 a week when Norma Talmadge and William Farnum were drawing $10,000.

They were as self-conscious about those salaries as today's stars, although it was too early for wails about income tax.

One writer tried to justify them thusly: "Why does Wallace Reid earn $3,000 a week, $156,000 a year, when President Harding earns only $75,000? There's a demand for Wally. He earns many times his salary for the stockholders."

The age had its drawbacks. Although Mack Sennett's bathing beauties had pioneered the field, the cheesecake publicity picture by modern standards left a good deal to be desired. Exposure of the female leg above mid-calf was something to remark about.

One scribe quoted shapely Marie Prevost as saying that a picture of her in a one piece bathing suit almost ruined her career.

Nazimova Sensation

Nudity for art's sake was a different matter, however. Nazimova twisted through the veil dance in "Salome" bare of shoulder, arm and leg and wearing a skin-tight wrapping over her torso. It was the sensation of the day.

Nor was the testimonial far advanced: There were no cigarette girls. Stars instead lent their faces to beauty-aid ads.

People don't worry much about an actor's I.Q. these days. But in 1923 one reporter took the trouble of investigating "silly talk about the motion picture folks having no brains." He was able to reassure his readers, after administering aptitude tests, that "the mental caliber of Richard Dix, Bryant Washburn or James Rennie is equivalent to that of the average colonel or major in the A.E.F."

Paving the way for Lassie were Rin Tin Tin and Strongheart. For Margaret O'Brien, Baby Peggy Montgomery. For Rogers and Autry, Tom Mix, Buck Jones and Hoot Gibson. The gag writer was fast coming into his own. Harold Lloyd, the Bob Hope of the silent screen, paid his jokesmiths $1,000 a week. Buster Keaton had four.

Stars were invading Europe. Hollywood had picture companies in Spain, Italy and North Africa. When Goldwyn imported two films from Italy, it was "the great Italian invasion."

Chin up, Hollywood. You've been through it all before.

Officers Elected By Prairie Ridge Club

The Pairie Ridge P. T. A. held a meeting October 6th, at the Prairie Ridge school.

The group elected the following officers: Mrs. Joe Bill Reid, President; Laura Nell Tevis, secretary; Lavina Ann Cornine as reporter.

The Stevenson mplement company entertained the group by showing motion pictures, "The Green Ocean" and a Bud Abbott and Lou Costella comic. Refreshments of cookies and kool-aid were served.

The next meeting will be held November 17, at Prairie Ridge school.

Sergeant Walz, of Clifton City, Wounded in Action

Sergeant First Class John William Walz, son of Mrs. Ida Walz, of Clifton City, has been wounded in action in Korea, according to announcement by the Department of Defense.

Estimates of the U. S. dog population run from 15,000,000 to 25,000,000.

KNOB NOSTER

The Knob Noster Free Fair, sponsored by the grade school, was held Saturday on the main street with a large crowd attending. The grade school teachers are: Mrs. John McKeever, Mrs. Robert Tyler, Mrs. Adolf Jarolim and Miss Mary Helen Gallaher, who planned the fair. Bert Saults was master of ceremonies.

Miss Sue Richeson was chosen Miss Knob Noster in a beauty contest Saturday night and Pamelia Rose was selected as Junior Miss of Knob Noster.

There were many contests and displays. Dale Brown received a gift for having the largest family present; Floyd Hood was the tallest person, 6 ft. 4 in.; W. H. Drinkwater was the oldest person, 87 years, and Chester Neitzert of Muskegon, Mich., came the greatest distance.

Miss Glenna Marie Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest L. Cooper of Windsor, was an added attraction with her horse, Wyoming, who did various tricks.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall McCrae and sons, John and Rick, of Hermose Beach, Calif., left Wednesday following a visit of several days with relatives and friends. Mr. McCrae, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCrae, formerly lived in Knob Noster, the family having moved to California about 28 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Saults and daughter, Courtney Lee, of Jefferson City, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Saults.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. McDonald of St. Joseph, visited Saturday and Sunday with the latter's father, A. S. Adcock.

Mrs. Larry Matthews and children, Phillip and Linda, spent Tuesday in Kansas City with her aunt, Mrs. Grace Stafford.

Members of the W.S.C.S. of the Methodist church met at the church met at the church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. V. W. Peithman reviewed the book, "We the People of the Ecumenical Church," and was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Clark.

Mrs. Claude Francis returned Thursday from Waynesville, N.C., where she visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. H. Brown. She was accompanied to Knob Noster by her mother and her sister, Mrs. Morgan Young and son, Ed, of Waynesville, for a visit.

Film Will Show Williamsburg History

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — (AP) — Motion pictures will soon show the history of this restored center of American Colonial life. Scenes are being made using the authentic reproductions of colonial structures.

About 300 citizens of the community, many of them in costumes from before the American Revolution, are taking part in the documentary presentations.

An important part of the filming has centered around the Josiah Chowning tavern. Between scenes the costumed actors and modern visitors often sat side by side at the tables and were served by costumed waiters.

Because most of the gold in South Africa lies deep underground, fewer individual prospectors have struck it rich there than in Australia or California.

Here's what the *FARMALL SYSTEM means to YOU!
For handling two 14-inch plow bottoms and comparable work, FARMALL H (above) is the choice.

The Farmall System of Farming is an American institution. Its roots are in the soil . . . on your farm, on the farms of your neighbors.

To increase productivity and speed up field work, look to the Farmall System for the answer. A Farmall Tractor and matched machines can mean greater operating economy and efficiency on the family farm—and that brings better living!

Five basic models make up the Farmall lineup. There's a size for every farm, an endless selection of Farmall equipment to work in every crop and soil condition.

The answer to the power problem on your farm can be found in the Farmall System . . . and we have full details on the model that fits your farm.

Mesquite Control Reported

COLLEGE STATION, Texas—(AP)—A new method of killing tough, deep-rooted mesquite trees and bushes has been developed by Texas A. & M. college's extension service. It may revive millions of acres of southwestern range land whose grass has been choked out by the plant.

For many years, the spreading mesquite infestation has resisted determined battles to wipe it out. Cut down mesquite and the extremely deep roots throw up dozens of sprouts where one grew before. Where the plants grow, grass can't. And that not only means loss of forage to livestock, but the bare, valuable topsoil washes or blows away.

The new method is spraying from an airplane with a pound of acid of 2,4,5-Tester, thinned with water and diesel oil, per acre. Sprayed in the spring, test areas have shown a 98 per cent top kill and 69 per cent root kill. The roots which were not killed produced spindly and abnormal plants, in most cases less than six inches tall.

Gang Chief in Mexico

Loafing at the Cassblanca hotel in Acapuloo, Mexico, while Kefauver committee investigators sought him in vain, Charlie Fischetti, alleged Chicago gang boss, killed some time watching a style show. An alert newsreel crew covering the show spotted him and without his knowledge put him in the movies. The cameraman had a model walk towards Fischetti and gradually edged the camera toward him. As the model approaches, the gang chief seems highly interested. (Exclusive NEA Telephoto)

Spider Had the First Telegraph

NEW YORK—(AP)—Modern communications experts who have been looking into the matter think the orb spider got ahead of them ages ago. The spider's system still works perfectly.

One strand of her web is run some distance to a special hideaway that the spider uses as a bedroom. The strand is pulled to a special tension and then the spider goes to sleep. When an insect gets caught in the web, that strand vibrates. The vibration wakes up the spider for dinner.
